MARILYN'S STORY, PICTURES TODAY

In simple words and glorious picture color, the 120-page Times today carries the first-person story of a schoolgirl's conquest of Juan de Fuca Strait.

Marilyn Bell, in the Weekend magazine section, tells about her hopes, aspirations, despair and "sticktoitiveness" which beat the Strait of Juan de Fuca from south to north last August.

Canada's top woman swim star emerges as no profoundly ambitious person, but as a sportswoman who has warmed the hearts of young and old from Juan de Fuca in the east. Her swim record even before she endeared herself to Victorians, speaks for itself. In the ballyhoo—which must be admitted was warranted in her swims—she kept a level head at all times, and expressed amazement that the eyes of all Canada and much of the world focused on her.

Juan de Fuca may well be her last big swim, she indicates. This could sadden those who have followed her career with an interest accorded few athletes.

Marilyn is studying physiotherapy at McGill University in Montreal now, a natural progression from the years she taught crippled children to swim.

Quebec Voting Critic Gagged?

QUEBEC (CP)—Abbe Louis O'Neill, co-author of a stinging attack on Quebec's electoral methods, has been "invited to refrain from writing for publication and from public speaking" for one year by the authorities of Laval University. It was reliably learned today.

Simultaneously Abbe O'Neill, who wrote the controversial 4,000-word article in collaboration with Abbe Gerard Dion, director of the department of industrial relations at Laval, was relieved of his post of professor of moral philosophy at Le Petit Séminaire and assigned to teach logic in the same institution.

A source within the university, who asked that his name not be published, said the change was ordered by "a high authority."

NO COMMENT

Superior of Le Petit Séminaire, Quebec province's oldest institution for secondary education and, in effect, a classical college directly affiliated with Laval, declined to comment.

Msgr. Adrien Falardeau said: "I have nothing to say. This matter is outside my jurisdiction." Abbe O'Neill declined to deny or confirm the report. He said simply: "I want to say nothing. Go wherever you wish for information but don't ask me to say anything."

The Laval informant said Abbe O'Neill was asked verbally, not in writing, to abstain from making public statements. He added that such an order might well be relaxed within a year, perhaps in a few months, although a time limit of one year was mentioned to Abbe O'Neill.

The article on Quebec's electoral methods was originally written by a Montreal newspaper.

NASHUA WINS FINAL

NEW YORK (Special)—In a blaze of glory, the curtain came down this afternoon on the racing career of Nashua when he won his last race, the $50,000 added Jockey Club Gold Cup. The world's top money-winning horse beat Riley and Third Brother, running the two miles in 3:20 2/5 to set a new U.S. record for the distance. (RCN photo.)

COMMODORE ON FIRE WATCH

Need for continuing alertness against fire is clearly seen by Commodore Patrick Budge, acting FOPC, at ceremony which made him honorary fire chief of the Pacific Command, RCN, even though he peers through non-magnifying nozzle instead of customary telescope. Fire Prevention Week ends today, but Commodore Budge hopes HMCS Naden and HMC Dockyard will maintain enviable record of fire-free days. (RCN photo.)

NO SIGN OF LIFE

Search Planes Spot Life Raft

LONDON (AP)—Search planes today spotted what at first was believed to be two life rafts in the Atlantic area where a giant American airliner vanished three days ago but one of the supposed rafts later proved to be a decomposed whale.

The search planes' crews radioed they saw no sign of life on or near the objects in the ocean off Spain.

An earlier report said there appeared to be one man on one of the Gibson girl rafts capable of holding 20 men.

However, U.S. Air Force headquarters announced: "No sign of life has been observed on either of two life rafts observed from the air."

A search plane radioed in mid-afternoon that it swooped low over the rafts. "There are no bodies on the two rafts sighted," it reported.

Manchester U. Stays on Top

LONDON (AP)—Manchester United stretched its unbeaten streak to 26 games today with a 3-1 away victory over Sunderland and Tottenham Hotspur and Arsenal—London's big two clubs again were in top form with impressive wins.

A crowd of 50,000 turned out at Sunderland for the visit of the English league leaders and once again United served up some dazzling football.

Stoke City, which won 1-0 at Lincoln, and Leicester City, which squeezed out a 3-2 win over Port Vale, both have 19 points at the top of the second division but Stoke leads with a slightly better goal average.

Southampton kept on top of the third division southern with a 1-0 away win over Brighton and Hove Albion. Torquay United, level with Southampton with 21 points, but behind in goal average, scored two goals in the second half for a 2-1 victory over Norwich City. Hartlepools United increased its lead in the third division northern with a 2-1 win at Crewe Alexandra. Accrington Stanley, among the leaders, lost 2-0 at Bradford City.

ANCIENT LAW PROVES HANDY

British High Court Makes Tanya Ward

LONDON (AP)—Tanya Chwastow, halted in flight with her father from the United States to Soviet Russia, has been made a ward of the British high court under a law devised to keep wicked squires from snaring poor little rich girls.

A judge will rule within 21 days on the fate of the 2½-year-old girl under a court order obtained Friday on behalf of her mother, Mrs. Helena Dieczok, 24, of Detroit, to hold her in Britain.

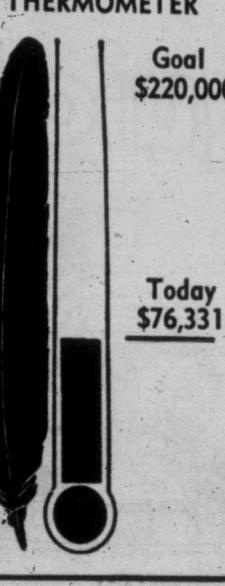

By order of the court, Tanya debarred with her father, Alexis Chwastow, 58, from the 7,500-ton Russian ship Viacheslav Molotov, which was to have carried them to Leningrad. The ship sailed without them.

The law specifies "the welfare of the child be paramount."

The law was originally drawn up to protect orphan heiresses from villainous suitors in the days when a woman's wealth automatically became the property of her husband on marriage.

By making a child heiress a permanent ward of court, the court could require suitors to get its permission to marry her and could weed out all but the upright and honorable.

A decision awarding Tanya to her father would clear the way for him to take the child to Russia. She could be returned to the United

Ike Tells Nation He's GOP Boss

Denies Adlai's Part-Time Charge

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democrats charged Friday that President Eisenhower is not leading his party or the United States, but Eisenhower told the U.S. via television he is fully in charge of his administration.

Adlai Stevenson, the Democratic presidential candidate, said President Eisenhower is "either unwilling or unable" to lead the Republican party. In consequence, Stevenson continued, national policy "has become stalled on dead centre." He said Vice-President Richard Nixon is the party's "new head."

Harry S. Truman, Democratic former president, said the U.S. "can't get by with a part-time president." Truman predicted a depression if Republicans win the Nov. 6 election.

President Eisenhower, asked directly in a televised question-and-answer session about this recurring Democratic accusation, replied:

"If I am not running the executive part of this government, then I am the man that is mostly foisted on this nation."

Stevenson, pushing his campaign in California, told a San Diego audience:

ISSUES "GRIM, PRESSING"

"Grim and pressing problems accumulate. But our federal government, the instrument of the people, has stopped thinking, stopped feeling, stopped caring and stopped acting."

Stevenson also announced he would have "more to say" in a country-wide radio-TV speech Monday night about his hotly attacked proposals to stop H-bomb tests.

Eisenhower, Vice-President Nixon and others have criticized Stevenson's stand. Eisenhower has called the proposal a "theatrical gesture."

Earlier Friday, Stevenson charged Eisenhower has misrepresented him by saying Stevenson wants to stop testing atomic weapons. Stevenson said he was concerned only with "hydrogen weapons."

Eisenhower's statement that he's firmly in charge came in an unusual mass television interview, with questions put by a variety of administration supporters. Aides said the show was unscripted.

During the exchange, Eisenhower said he is against uncontrolled "big business," but upheld his policy of using successful businessmen in key government posts.

U.S. VISITOR DISAPPOINTED —NO HOUSE OF LORDS IN B.C.

An American tourist poked his head inside the entrance to the Legislative Buildings Friday and asked if he could watch the B.C. parliament in session.

When told the legislative assembly does not meet till Jan. 1, the tourist shook his head sadly and said:

"I'm afraid I can't wait till then. Tell me, where can I find your House of Lords?"

Again thwarted, the man from Oregon turned dejectedly away and wandered in the direction of Thunderbird Park. At least no one could deny him a view of Victoria's totem poles.

Face-Lifting Given Legislative Chamber

By NORMAN CRIBBENS
Times Political Reporter

The British Columbia legislative chamber has a bleak and deserted wiring of members' desks to the public address system.

Six new desks are under construction because of the enlargement of the legislative assembly from 48 to 52 members. It is even possible that some of the government's 39 members may be seated on the opposition side of the chamber.

Workmen are also constructing two walkways connecting the east and west wings with the main legislative building.

Mr. Mackereath said new ceilings had to be put in place because the concrete has been eroded by as much as an inch and a half.

Better to Overlap Social Aid Than Fall Short, PM Declares

TORONTO (CP) — Prime Minister St. Laurent said today that in the field of social welfare it is better to risk the overlapping of services than to offer anything less than the best possible services to the citizens of Canada.

While duplication is undesirable, it is far more serious to fail to meet the needs of our population and I sincerely hope that if we err we do so on the side of humanity and not on the side of neglect."

The prime minister, speaking at the opening of a new building at the Women's College Hospital, said his government's policy is to limit federal aid to programs which would benefit all Canadians.

WHAT'S YOUR OPINION?

Question: "The Province has allotted each B.C. municipality 60 cents per capita for a Centennial Year project of 'lasting value and significance' to the community. Greater Victoria municipalities may lump their grants for one united project. What do you think it should be?"

Mrs. Edward Hayward, 1512 Fell Street: "We should have an auditorium, something similar to the Festival Hall in London, where 'concerts can be held. I'm a newcomer from London and I miss a centre like the Festival Hall."

Ernie Slade, parks clerk, 3208 Shelbourne Street: "I think the money should be used for a sports centre, so that there will be one centre where basketball and wrestling can be held."

Mrs. Percy Pettigrew, 3975 Wilkinson Road: "I like the idea of rock 'n' roll parties, but I think they should be supervised. Why not build a youth centre with courts for basketball and other games so that the teenagers will have a place to gather?"

George Davidson, painter, 1653 Fell Street: "I think the money should be spent for an addition to the museum. It's very over-crowded now—the exhibits are crammed into a small space and many others can't be displayed because there just isn't any room."

Bob Copley, owner, Power Mower Sales, 2833 Adelaide: "Something that would be very beneficial is an addition to the arena of a skating area for children. I understand they have sufficient freezing equipment to handle an extra rink."

Frank Mannix, sign writer, 1072 Marigold: "Sixty cents per capita should just about take care of a swimming pool for the children like they have at Kitsilano Beach in Vancouver. Here we just have wading pools for the kids."

Arthritis Helped By Lowly Aspirin, Forum Advised

By TONY DICKASON

The lowly aspirin emerged Friday as perhaps the safest, least expensive and most effective treatment for the average case of arthritis.

Arthritis, "The Crippler," was discussed in a free health forum here Friday sponsored by the Victoria Medical Society and the Daily Colonist, held in Central Junior High School auditorium. More than 2,400 attended.

The panel of doctors consisted of Dr. W. A. Falk, Dr. L. N. Roberts, Dr. A. E. Trottier and Dr. R. C. Anderson. Moderator was Dr. C. Y. Brown.

Dr. Falk said main objective in treating rheumatoid arthritis is to relieve pain, maintain function of the joints and stop progress of inflammation.

No Harmful Heart Effect From Aspirins

Dr. Trottier pointed out aspirins have no harmful effect on the heart, and so-called heartburn can be avoided by taking aspirin with a glass of milk or soda.

Main points made at the forum are that arthritis can be helped greatly by early diagnosis and treatment, and that it is not necessarily a progressive crippling disease.

Dr. Brown said that in recent years there had been a marked increase in the numbers of articles in magazines dealing with arthritis.

"Some are factual, some are completely wrong and utterly fantastic."

Balanced Diet Considered Most Important

cause of rheumatoid arthritis, most serious variety, isn't known, said Dr. Roberts. Some people are born with a tendency to develop it, or it may come when a person with this tendency is exposed to undue stress, such as prolonged physical or nervous strain, lowering vitality.

Citrus fruits or other specific food have no bearing on rheumatoid arthritis, he said. The one important point is a balanced diet.

He said that where patent medicines were supposed to have cured arthritis and rheumatism, it was nearly always because the patient had only muscular rheumatism, not arthritis. In the course of experimenting, the patient gives himself time to recover from stress which can also result in muscular weakness.

Metals, Plastics Replace Worn Cartilage

Hydrocortisone has been used for relief when injected directly into the joint and surgery is of value in some cases. Metals and plastics to replace certain worn cartilage.

"Osteoarthritis never killed anyone, and doesn't shorten life," said Dr. Anderson.

It can just make life miserable.

It is hard to assess treatment of the rheumatoid type because the disease usually runs an up and down course. It is generally considered if 100 patients are not given any particular treatment but are observed for a number of years, 25 will be per cent of untreated cases get worse, Dr. Brown said.

In treatment of the rheumatoid type, cortisone has been helpful, or injections of gold compounds to settle inflammation.

In rheumatoid arthritis the patient is usually underweight; in osteoarthritis the patient is generally overweight.

Cortisone and related compounds must be given daily or a flareup occurs, though hydrocortisone may be injected with good effects lasting up to 10 weeks.

A few patients taking cortisone have bad side effects and must be thoroughly appreciative of the danger.

There is a wrong idea patients must continue walking and moving despite pain. Exercise taken when lying down keeps muscles active without inflaming the joints. Physiotherapy contributes about 50 per cent to improvement of the patient.

The bed patient who is not exercised will develop worse deformities than the up-patient.

The more acute the case, the greater the need for supervised exercise.

Dr. Anderson said the advantages of hot springs or mineral waters is because of the restful atmosphere of resorts and remoteness of worries, "not in the amount of sulphur or potash in the water."

When surgery is considered, it is to relieve pain and improve the function of a joint, never as a cure.

Memorial Rites At St. Luke's For H. G. Jones

Memorial service will be held in St. Luke's Church Sunday at 4:15 p.m. for prominent official of the church Hudson G. Jones, 75, who died in Vancouver last Sunday.

Canon Frederick Pike will officiate at the service.

Mr. Jones was a church warden and Sunday School superintendent at St. Luke's for many years before moving to Vancouver three months ago.

While resident here, he belonged to the Victoria Masons, AF and AM, No. 1, Scottish Rite and Eastern Star.

He is survived by his wife Ione and one son in Vancouver, and a daughter in Manitoba.

His ashes will be buried in St. Luke's churchyard.

Fulton 'In'; Diefenbaker Available

Westerners Make Announcements In Race for Tory Leadership

OTTAWA (CP)—Shadow-boxing in the Progressive Conservative leadership contest has ended with announcements from two Western members of the Commons that they are ready and willing to stand as candidates.

John Diefenbaker and Davie Fulton made the statements Friday night, two months before the start of a convention here at which some 1,400 Conservatives will vote to pick their next national leader.

Mr. Diefenbaker, 61-year-old MP for Prince Albert, Sask., told a gathering in his home riding that he will not "seek the high honor of leadership" but is willing to let his name stand if it is the wish of "Canadians generally."

There seemed little doubt that the party's external affairs spokesman would be in the running when the convention opens.

Mr. Diefenbaker planned to meet briefly in Saskatoon today with Mr. Hees and then travel East for speaking engagements Monday and Tuesday in Montreal and Wednesday in Prince Edward Island. Both dates were made several months ago.

"I have decided to accept the urgings of my friends and colleagues and to allow my name to stand."

A third person who has generally been considered a likely contender, Donald Fleming, member for Toronto Eglington, said at Toronto Friday night he has "no comment at present." He had not yet made his decision.

Speculation on possible leadership candidates had centred on the three, together with George Hees, MP for Toronto Broadview, ever since Hon. George Drew dropped the leadership reins in mid-September because of ill health.

Last week the 46-year-old Mr. Hees bowed out of contention and aligned himself with a "Diefenbaker-for-leader" move which had shaped up within the party's 53-member Commons group.

DECEMBER DECISION

The announcements ended the behind-the-scenes manoeuvring which began here last week at meetings of the Conservative Commons membership and the executive of the party's national association to plan the convention which begins here Dec. 10.

Mr. Diefenbaker, Commons member since 1940, twice tried unsuccessfully for the leadership. In 1942 he placed third in a five-way contest won by John Bracken. In 1948 he was runner-up at the convention which chose Mr. Drew. The 51-year-old Mr. Fleming, only other candidate in 1948, trailed in the voting.

Mr. Fulton, a lawyer like Mr. Diefenbaker and Mr. Fleming, has been in the Commons since 1945. Ten years ago he was president of the Young Progressive Conservatives Association.

Mr. Fulton made his statement about two hours before Mr. Diefenbaker. On Thursday he said he wouldn't make his stand known until next week.

Both spoke of urgings from friends and supporters.

The statements left little doubt there will be a convention contest.

LLANDUDNO, Wales (Reuters)—The Conservative party Friday voted overwhelmingly in favor of retaining the death penalty for murder.

The vote at the party's annual conference here was in direct conflict with the verdict of the House of Commons, which recently supported in a free vote a bill to abolish hanging.

Fuel for Canada

THE CANADIAN GOVERNMENT's famous pipeline policy, which convulsed the last session of Parliament, was based on two premises: The builders could not finance the line between Alberta and Winnipeg and therefore must receive a government loan; as the Canadian market could not support the project two-fifths of the gas from Alberta must be sold in the United States.

Both these premises, fortunately, are turning out to be false. The pipeline builders are presently arranging to finance their construction costs themselves and, apparently, will repay their loan from the public treasury in the near future. More important, it now appears that the Canadian market is much larger than the builders supposed and, within five years at most, can easily absorb the 500 million cubic feet of gas a day which Alberta has agreed to release.

This second fact must alter the Government's whole approach to the gas problem.

It never favored the export of gas to the United States but accepted this disagreeable necessity only because the Canadian market appeared insufficient to justify the pipeline. As Mr. Howe told Parliament, gas is a capital asset like electrical power, which Canada has consistently refused to export.

"That consistent policy," Mr. Howe added, "has paid large dividends to the Canadian economy in that our sources of electrical energy have been preserved to our own economy. Therefore, the policy of the Government of Canada is to refuse permits for moving natural gas by pipe line across an international boundary until such time as we are convinced that there can be no economic use, present or future, for that natural gas within Canada."

The daily export of 200 million cubic feet of gas from Alberta has been authorized by Canada (though not yet by the United States) solely because no economic use for it could be found in Canada. Now that economic use has been found. Communities from the Rockies to the St. Lawrence are eagerly signing contracts for the delivery of western gas and they should soon be able to use the entire contents of the new pipeline.

In this respect the pipeline between Alberta and Ontario differs from the line running from the Peace River country to Vancouver and thence into the United States. The British Columbia project could not be financed without a substantial American market.

Now that the prairies and central Canada are prepared to use the full output of the trans-Canada pipeline, the Government will have to reconsider its export policy. There is no excuse for alienating a capital resource required in Canada so long as we can use and pay for it ourselves.

It is to be expected, therefore, that the "consistent policy" advocated by Mr. Howe will be applied to gas as to electricity, that the export permit will be withdrawn and our fuel preserved for Canadian use.

Thus, with the pipeline financed privately and its entire contents benefiting Canadian industries and homes, the whole scheme seems likely to prove more satisfactory than even that incurable optimist, Mr. Howe, dared to hope.

Lieut.-Col. Joan Kennedy

UNTIMELY DEATH HAS REMOVED one of the foremost figures in Canadian women's army circles. As organizer of the CWAC in the Second World War and later administrating officer at Ottawa, the late Lieut.-Col. Joan Kennedy set an example of patriotism and leadership which thousands of Canadian women followed.

Through her valuable services, both in war and in peace, she earned the admiration and commendation of Canadian governmental and military authorities at all levels. Lieut.-Col. Kennedy was one of those who see challenge in emergency and an opportunity for service in national need.

By her leadership she contributed substantially to Canada's war effort, and set the pace which was so enthusiastically followed by Canadian womanhood throughout the conflict. In her death Victoria has lost an outstanding citizen; Canada has lost a devoted patriot.

Surging Community Growth

GREATER VICTORIA HAS grounds for satisfaction in the Dominion Bureau of Statistics report that the community's population has grown 18 per cent in the last five years.

An urban area of 123,000 people is something to note in Canadian population figures. The total will be impressive to business interests, both locally and across the country. This is obviously a market worth greater development.

The figures will bring immediate returns, moreover, in government grants fixed on a per capita basis. Beyond that, it reflects a surging vitality that speaks well for the future.

But if the Greater Victoria aggregate is cheering, the dissatisfaction of the city itself can be easily understood. Federal statistics indicate that Victoria alone has added under the circumstances civic leaders are of the opinion that some error has occurred in the bureau's arithmetic. They are taking the proper course in requesting a further check on the totals announced from Ottawa.

This is no mere matter of local pride. It is a question of dollars and cents to the city. A further investigation seems highly desirable and reasonable.

REPORT FROM OTTAWA

Canada and the Secret Trade Deals

A GROWING tendency in Canadian Government circles to try and keep important developments in the federal field out of the newspapers is apparent at Ottawa. Lately is the disclosure that Washington has been insisting that countries accepting its give-away wheat must undertake to purchase certain future requirements from the United States. Canadian key officials were first informed by European sources that the Americans were including such a stipulation in their deals. But the Canadians dismissed the suggestion months ago as "nonsense," asserting that the Americans would not do such a thing.

Protest

The Canadian officials learned definitely to their sorrow during the discussions at Winnipeg with their counterparts from Washington. The United States and Canadian Governments have agreed to keep each other informed of developments in the surplus agricultural products picture. It was during one of the meetings between the officials from Ottawa and Washington held last August in Winnipeg that the Canadian Government saw spelled out in black and white

As Our Readers See It

No Base of Principles

American ignorance of the term Social Credit is not surprising. It is doubtful if any single one of the voters who returned this party to power could explain its meaning. Eric Martin, health minister in the Social Credit government, states that there are only two political parties—social debt and Social Credit. It would be interesting to hear Mr. Martin's definition of Social Credit, B.C. brand.

To the writer, the B.C. Social Credit party appears to be a party without political principles. This is not necessarily to imply that it is made up of unprincipled individuals; what is meant, simply, is that unlike all other parties in opposition to it, it appears to have no proper constitution to which it must adhere, no tenets by which it is bound and to which it may be held.

Some time ago, in order to ascertain if possible what this Social Credit party actually stands for beyond what is vaguely termed progress and legislation for ordinary people, one sent for Social Credit literature and received in due course a quantity of material, most of it adorned with the ubiquitous picture of Mr. Bennett.

In all of this material one found nothing to indicate that this party has either a constitution or any basic philosophy concerned with what may be called ethical or political values. There is much about "Progress"; that is to say about highways, the P.G.E., industrial expansion and like matters, for all of which the Social Credit party awards itself much acclaim.

This sort of achievement is the function of all government and there is nothing especially noteworthy in the fact that the present government has in some cases competently performed that function; although of course that section of the P.G.E. so hastily completed cannot as yet, one feels, be called successful, nor, one thinks, can B.C.'s Social Credit Party's claim to responsibility for what it calls boom conditions in the province be considered valid—such conditions were well established before this new party was organized.

The point one wishes to make, however, is that the B.C. Social Credit Party must, one thinks, be considered as having no proper political base and must necessarily therefore be thought of as irresponsible.

Not Concerned'

TOM BATE, MLA for Vancouver Point Grey, is quoted as saying he is "not concerned" whether anyone is guilty in the Sturdy-Sommers case, he says he is "sick and tired" of hearing about the case. He can blame the Government for that. Every MLA should be concerned or his sense of political morality is at a very low ebb.

Speaker Tom Irwin says the people of B.C. "are not in debt. The debt is against the Government, not the people." What kind of balderdash is that? One segment of the Government says they have reduced the debt; another says we haven't any debt, and the debt is steadily increasing. Speaker Irwin has said many very stupid things due to his obsession with Douglas Social Credit.

He says all retail prices could be reduced overnight 20 per cent, the merchants would sell a $5 article for $4 by Government order. The merchant would then go to the banks for reimbursement of the $1. Where would the banks get the money? From taxation?

FRANK H. PARTRIDGE.

Winter and the Woodbox

During the recent provincial election and previously we heard a good deal about forest management—or mismanagement.

Today some of our local lumber firms advise everyone to "convert" which means to instal oil furnaces at the cost of $600—up.

As at least 20% of our population are living on very small pensions this "conversion" is just a physical impossibility.

This large island, with a small population located on its S.E. coastal strip has thousands of acres of virgin timber. This also applies to the Queen Charlotte Islands, lying out on our N.W. coast.

Are the modern robber barons to be allowed to take all the cut and leave those in the lower income brackets to freeze? Winter will soon be here, Messrs. Bennett and Scurrall better get busy.

Publicity

Why was it not made known in Canada before this? That was the question put to Canadian officials. When they became aware of it first at Winnipeg why did they not make the discriminatory practice known to the Americans public?

In reply key officials suggest that they doubt that publicity helps. They advance the theory that more progress can be made in persuading the Americans to change such discriminatory practices behind closed doors. "Once the newspapers get onto the story and it becomes widely publicized then there is a loss of face" involved for whichever side backs down," a high ranking Canadian official explained. "It had been a deliberate decision to keep the story out of the papers if possible."

Excitement

Word received by the department of external affairs and the word out of Washington is that the United States has no intention of altering its practice. But that perennial optimist Trade Minister Howe has a different viewpoint. Despite the pessimistic reports received by his own department, Mr. Howe told a press conference that there were "indications" that the Americans would change their practice and drop the "tied-in" sales provision in their give-away program.

And you know, it seemed to cause us all very little concern. Our nonchalance toward the pitfalls of life was probably simply due to the fact that it was the order of the day and there was far too much to do every day to worry about the future.

But I do remember the cries of the Jeremiahs: "What is this generation coming to? . . . When I was a boy it was different. . . . This is a Godless and irreverent age."

LOOSE ENDS

A Visit to the Rich Land

RIDING through the Rockies a few days ago, I encountered what you might call the ultimate peak of the Canadian revolution. There, two miles above sea level, on a naked, windswept peak, stood the stark, black skeleton of an oil drill and around it a village of trailers.

The revolution, having bored the central plains, was seeking oil beneath the continental spine. A few years ago the natives of the foothills laughed with scorn when some American fiction writer published a story about an oil well drilled in the mountains. Who had ever heard of such a thing? Nevertheless, such wells are being bored today and the ugly disorder of oil camps is littered among the upland meadows, the dwarf spruce and the glaciers.

IT IS said that Alberta may prove to be the richest single area in the world, much richer, for example, than British Columbia. I can hardly doubt it after driving about that province, visiting countless booming towns and riding into the loneliest places.

I suppose you could place all British Columbia's farms combined into one small corner of that vast grain field running from the American border almost to the edge of Great Slave Lake. Our cattle would be lost among the huge herds of the foothills. And underneath the opulent surface lies that unimaginable ocean of oil and a bursting inferno of gas.

THE interesting thing about Alberta, however, is not its wealth but its distances. In British Columbia, unless you look seaward, you never encounter distance. Even the distances of the Cariboo plateau are comparatively small. From the eastern flank of the Rockies, on a clear day, you can almost see the grain elevators of Fort William. Or looking westward from the foothills (this is a painful admission for a British Columbian) you command a view of mountain and sky finer than anything on the western side.

Three separate epics could be written about Henry, Wilson and Castleman but

No wonder, in such surroundings and under the blazing Alberta sky, the people are all suffering gravely from euphoria. No wonder Edmonton and Calgary are bursting at the seams and sprawling all over the prairies.

UT in all this progress, as the process is called, the old-time Albertan is not quite extinct. You will not find him in the big towns or in the headlines. You will find him on some lonely ranch, at the end of a muddy road—such a man, for example, as Frank Wilson, one of the last of that almost lost breed, the cowboy, who wears a bullet crease on his skull and spent last winter in a tent with his young wife and year-old baby.

At the age of 69 Wilson is still as large and powerful as two ordinary men, can still ride all day or hit a tin can in the air with a six-shooter, for he was trained as a boy in the cattle wars of Wyoming and watched men shot or lynched before he was fourteen.

WITH him that day—only thirty miles from a paved highway but in fact on the other side of the world—were two other notable men whose lives would make a book of fiction too improbable for publication.

Billy Henry, a tiny, grey man of placid countenance who rarely speaks, is the last of the great cattle men who made Alberta and are now forgotten in the age of oil. He listened to Wilson's stories of violent death in Wyoming and nodded rather wistfully, for he had memories of the same sort—among them his own incredible feat of driving a herd of cattle to Dawson city in the gold rush and two herds into the Athabasca through four feet of snow. Beside him sat another of the same breed, Casey Castleman, who, in his old age, is still a master of the cowboy's almost lost art.

Crouched with Mitchell in a deep hole, I watched the ducks coming down from the north in their black myriads and, then, like a blizzard of clean snowflakes, the white geese called wavy. Mitchell complained that they were out of range but secretly I was glad to find that one of life at least had escaped the great boom.

WHEN WE WERE VERY YOUNG

Delinquents Were Just Boys in Those Days

THERE has been a lot of bother in recent years about a thing called juvenile delinquency. The public prints have devoted a great deal of space to this phenomenon and it has been more learnedly discussed in our more highbrow journals. This mouthful of syllables is the modern definition of youthful exuberance—usually when it runs off at a tangent. It seems to me to be the result of that exuberance unable to find a normal outlet and, in consequence, the animal spirits of a large number of our youth are bottled up. When they have been compressed too much there is an explosion.

It is nice to have a word for it; but it is very probable that the Greeks had a word for it and perhaps the Romans, Egyptians and the ancient Chinese had a word for it.

I suppose the head-shrakers feel better for finding a definition for every departure from what one might call the normal. Like the Americans who coined the fine phrase "battle fatigue" to account for what we, in the First World War called "shell shock" or just plain funk.

Insecurity?

They will prate about youthful manifestations of a little wildness devolving from a sense of unwantedness and of insecurity—in a day when we are citizens of the welfare state that nurses us from the cradle to the grave.

Well, when I was very young the modern safeguards against loss of employment, against an old age of poverty and against the fearful incidence of sickness were not a part of the state economy.

And do you know, it seemed to cause us all very little concern.

Our nonchalance toward the pitfalls of life was probably simply due to the fact that it was the order of the day and there was far too much to do every day to worry about the future.

But I do remember the cries of the Jeremiahs: "What is this generation coming to? . . . When I was a boy it was different. . . . This is a Godless and irreverent age."

Wrong Idea

From The New York Times

THE full extent of the demoralization and dissension in the Communist party in this country has been brought to the surface by William Z. Foster, the party's chairman. Mr. Foster has written an article in which he attempts to justify his own leadership this past decade.

In the process he reveals that many Communists are confused, disillusioned and disenchanted to the extent that his opponents in the leadership are ready to discard the concept of Marxism-Leninism.

It is an empirical law of Communist party history that whenever the party line is changed there must be a sacrificial victim among the leadership. Mr. Foster, who ousted Earl Browder somewhat more than a decade ago, would seem to be the chosen victim now, in view of his status as a minority of one in the national committee.

Alternatively, however, Mr. Foster may hope that he will be the victor and oust his opponents. Possibly he is encouraged in such hopes by recent news of the warm words of praise Pravda has cast in his direction.

But neither Mr. Foster's accusations against "Rightists" and "liquidationists" nor his opponents' effort to create the facade that the Communist party has now become a truly American party are likely to save the day.

Both Mr. Foster and his opponents have together been guilty of slavish subservience to the Soviet Union and of childish misunderstanding of American realities. Intellectually the Communist party is bankrupt. Its record makes it impossible that it should ever again command the support of any significant group of Americans or play a serious role in the dynamic development of our society.

And though it may now seem silly, I wouldn't have dreamed of walking alone from Spring Ridge at night through the territory of any of the other gangs. If it became necessary to cross through their boundaries I would make a wide circuit to avoid a clash . . . which would probably have never occurred.

A Catastrophe!

Not only is this the season of mists and mellow fruitfulness, but it is the season of Assizes. Once more the Queen's Justice here to hold the ancient Royal Court of Oyer and Terminer and General Gaol Delivery; in plain language, to hear and determine differences of opinion which have arisen between Her Majesty and those of her loyal subjects who appear to have transgressed, and thus deliver the gaols of their many guests.

General Gaol Delivery is an optimistic phrase. All too often it simply means a shift from one gaol to another, but then it should be remembered that all those in custody awaiting trial are, in the eye of the law, innocent men. Let us hope that they are found so to be by their peers.

The first case of this assize, that of Mr. (or Dr.) Maggs, resulted in a conviction by his 12 peers. Mr. (or Dr.) Maggs called himself not only a Dr. (both Ph. and M.) but held out to all the world that he was an FRAM. The nearest thing which fits these initials is a degree from the Royal Academy of Music, and one can only admire the versatility of a man who, in this age of abject specialization, can crowd so many widely differing accomplishments into his life (or at least onto his visiting card). To have accumulated doctorates in philosophy and medicine (to say nothing of the various bachelor's and master's degrees which were also listed) and on top of that to have pursued a long and arduous musical apprenticeship shows an enormous capacity for industry.

But perhaps on the whole it would have been better if he had remained in the vet-

Comedy Custard Pies

LONDON—At random . . . Patti Lewis, Toronto pop singer who came over here three years ago to chance her luck in London, has now established herself, if not at the top of the entertainment world, at least on the upper branches. Having been knocking at the door with a personal appearance here, a recording there, etc., what has made her a public figure has been her playing stooge (when not singing) for those zany English comics. The Goons. She is starting on a new TV series with them and doesn't mind at all that she is looking forward to a winter of getting custard pies in the face.

Double-10 Sparks Deadly Riots

To Chinese, Wednesday was the be in something of a squeeze. On day of the "double ten." On the one side was U.S. State Secretary Dulles. He voiced firm support of the British-French position. But complaints persisted about the "hot and cold" gyrations of U.S. policy. The British and French wondered how long Dulles' backing would stay firm.

Hong Kong, British trading and naval centre on the South China coast, is a chief haven for refugees from the Red mainland. Its population has been increased fivefold, from half a million 10 years ago to nearly 2,500,000 today.

Despite the press of this refugee multitude on the colony's housing and other resources, and the inevitable interplay of intrigue between Nationalist and Communist factions, Hong Kong had been relatively free of violence—until this week's celebration of the "double ten."

Then, a minor incident touched off fierce rioting. An official at a housing development took down some Nationalist flags that had been put up for the holiday. His action inflamed Nationalist partisans who set out on a march of looting and burning.

First the violence was directed against the British, whose diplomatic recognition of Red China does not sit well with the partisans of Chiang Kai-shek. Then the Nationalists turned their wrath on Chinese Communist factions.

The violence was confined to the mainland section of Hong Kong. The island of Hong Kong, the colony's most important part, was relatively quiet. Property damage from looting and burning was placed in the millions. About 25 were killed.

WHEAT PROTEST Ottawa, to say nothing of the west, is unhappy over a gimmick that Washington has worked into its wheat giveaway program. Canada had reluctantly acquiesced in the U.S. program of whittling down its wheat surplus by giving away, or selling for local currencies, the bread grain to overseas countries short of dollar cash.

The understanding was that the U.S. would lax off deals likely to damage the established markets of friendly exporting countries, such as Canada which trades strictly for dollars.

But recently Canada learned the U.S. has been adding a proviso in such deals: that when the donated or bargain grain is used up, the benefiting country will order—and pay for in dollars—additional quantities of U.S. wheat. In other words, buy from the U.S. instead of from Canada.

Last Monday Ottawa disclosed a "strong" note of protest has been delivered in Washington. But officials were not optimistic that much would come of it. Certainly not during the current U.S. election campaign. And Washington contended the proviso was merely to protect normal American markets.

SUEZ PROBLEM The search for a solution to the Suez Canal problem went on all week at United Nations headquarters in New York and moved a long step forward late Friday when Britain, France and Egypt agreed on six principles as a basis for further negotiations. (See Page 1.)

Ground Near Nevada Atomic Site Loaded With Deadly Strontium

WASHINGTON (AP) — The mid-western United States, because of its nearness to the Nevada atomic testing ground, is estimated to have about 50 per cent more radio-active strontium in its soil than other comparative areas of the world.

Dr. Willard F. Libby, a member of the Atomic Energy Commission, made this report Friday in a speech to a special meeting of the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

Libby presented charts showing that radio active strontium radioactive strontium—most dangerous of all fall-out materials—can cause bone cancer if present in the body in sufficient quantities.

Libby, however, presented a bright note. He said new evidence suggests that strontium may not get into the body from the soil in anything like the high proportion as previously believed.

PRESENTING CASSENTI PLAYERS

Musical Art Society Gives Fine Service

A distinguished group of musicians, the Cassenti Players, which will be heard by Victoria music lovers at the Empress Hotel Tuesday evening is being brought to the city by one of its longest term, consistently active musical organizations, the Victoria Musical Art Society.

This concert by the Vancouver-based wind quintet marks the opening of the society's 26th consecutive season, although a scrapbook in the former Ladies' Musical Club archives carries as its first entry the signature of Mark Hambridge, with the date 1910.

The pages of this scrapbook bear out the society's claim to have been instrumental through the years in bringing outstanding solo and group performers to the city.

Another important service the group renders is in the provision of scholarships and bursaries which have greatly assisted a number of top-ranking students.

Keen interest and guidance is also given the junior, intermediate and studio groups through which the society fosters and encourages youthful talent.

BUSY QUINTET

In presenting the Cassenti Players another major event is scheduled. The group, organized in 1953 by George Zukerman, solo bassoonist with the Vancouver Symphony Orchestra, has made two major Northwest concert tours, has been heard in numerous trans-

Canada CBC broadcasts and also presents special performances and clinics on college campuses and in school systems.

Others in the quintet are Kenneth Helm, flute; Roland Dufrane, oboe; John Arnott, clarinet, and David Lawson, French horn. All are first-desk musicians with the Vancouver Symphony and renowned soloists and teachers in the Pacific Northwest.

SEASON'S EVENTS

The Victoria Musical Art Society announces the balance of its 1956-57 season as follows: November 20, a vocal recital featuring Mrs. Margaret Abbott, soprano, and Derek MacDermot, baritone. December 15, annual Carol Tea. January 8, Victoria-born Robin Wood, internationally acclaimed pianist, in recital. February 19, Mary Hammond Evans, solo cellist with the Victoria Symphony Orchestra, and Lloyd Powell, Vancouver pianist. March 19, annual talented students' recital.

All events, with the exception of Robin Wood's recital, will take place at the Empress Hotel. Mr. Wood will be heard at Metropolitan United Church.

Fred Karger has been assigned as musical director for "Rhythm and Blues," rock and roll musical which producer Sam Katzman currently has before the cameras at Columbia.

Canuck Soloists Could Hold Own In Any Centre

The manifest success which Hyman Goodman so deservedly earned at the Symphony's opening concert points a moral which I have always preached: that, if the concert-going public turns out to hear the MUSIC, they will be in for rewarding performances even if the performer's name was not a household word to them beforehand.

In other words, an expensive press agent is NOT necessary in order for a violinist to play masterfully the Bruch violin concerto, for instance. It appeals to both my patriotism and my (if you will) stinginess to be able to say all our soloists, however unknown, have been Canadians, and that their concerto performances, let us make no mistake and I state impersonally, have almost invariably been of a quality that would have been more than acceptable in ANY big-city concert hall. A multiple of Mr. Goodman's fee may have bought a more famous name, but it would NOT have bought a more memorable performance of the Bruch concerto — and that, generally, is a safe prophecy for me to make in the instance of all the other guest-artists yet to come and the other concertos they will be playing here.

More than 100,000 movie theatres in the world take in $4 billion annually.

An unusual vivid recording of the suite "The Birds," written by Italian composer Ottorino Respighi, places a new Angel disc (35310) among the most interesting releases of the month. The suite, composed in 1927 and based on 17th and 18th century bird pieces for harpsichord and clavichord, ranks today among the better works of Respighi. It is not as noisy as some of his larger compositions. The music in a unique way stresses the character of various birds, such as the hen, nightingale, the dove and cuckoo.

For those interested in high fidelity, this record has surfaces noises to speak of. The various instruments are heard clearly and vividly. The performance by the Scarlatti

Davy

Orchestra of Naples under the direction of Franco Caracciolo is polished and smooth.

On the reverse side is Respighi's Botticelli Triptych for small orchestra. The composer drew his inspiration from the pictures of the famous artist Botticelli for this work.

David Oistrach, violin, and Lev Oborin, piano: Columbia (ML5096)—This is a good bargain, for apart from the sonata, the disc contains five other selections for violin and piano by various composers.

The record company in this release has shown good judgment in providing the listener with a diversity of musical styles of various composers. Too many records today are devoted entirely to the works of one composer. They provide no relief, no contrast for the listener.

The Oistrach disc features Vitali's Chaconne; Brahms' Lullaby; Brahms' Hungarian Dance No. 11 in D Minor, and Mendelssohn's On the Wings of Songs.

The accompanist for these selections is Vladimir Yampolsky.

POPS LIBRARY: As a sequel to Adrienne Avon's first Paul Jones record which proved a success, Columbia has released a Paul Jones III disc. This will appeal to people who like country dance music.

Ethel Merman's "retirement" from the stage didn't take—She'll be back this season in a new musical—but if she should leave the boards for keeps, she will have left behind a wealth of recorded music, including such fine albums as "Annie, Get Your Gun" and "Call Me Madam."

Now Decca has made this endowment much richer with a spectacular LP album, "Ethel Merman, a Musical Autobiography."

It contains all of the songs that Miss Merman has belted, starting with "I Got Rhythm" and ending almost two hours later with "How Deep Is the Ocean?"

Young Artist Excels In Amazing Experts

By AUDREY ST. D. JOHNSON

To date, in a short life fraught with difficulties which comparatively few people are called upon to face, James Fenwick Lansdowne has specialized in amazing experts and achieving the said-to-be impossible.

The latest achievement of the 19-year-old Victoria artist—the resounding success of the first major exhibition of his wildlife paintings at the Royal Ontario Museum—is an important milestone in his shaping of a career out of what might have been a life of hopeless invalidism.

During the first year of his life, in Hong Kong, "Fen" as he likes to be called, contracted polio and doctors told his mother it was unlikely he would live beyond the age of five.

When he survived past his fifth birthday they said he would never walk; but by the time he was 11 he had started to do so, aided by several operations on his vertebrae.

Today, having financed the purchase of a car through the sale of his paintings, and having had it specially adapted to his disabilities, he drives himself about the Island in search of subjects for his brush. He even goes on long trips like one he took recently down to Colorado with Frank Beebe of the provincial museum.

HIGH SCHOOL GRAD

Between the ages of 11 and 18 he completed his schooling, attending St. Michael's and Victoria High, from which he graduated in 1955.

Now "Fen" has settled down to his career in earnest. He works at a big drawing board in a wide window with a pleasant southern aspect, at his home on Forrester Street. He hopes to have the chance of becoming an illustrator but at present he works almost exclusively on private orders.

"Fen" has been keenly interested in birds and other creatures as long as he can remember, but he only began painting them when he was 14. So far he has not taken any formal art lessons but he has had assistance. First of all from his mother, who is herself an artist of no small accomplishment.

EXPERIMENTED

She recalls that she used to sit beside her son's bed, painting as much for his amusement as her own, and that when she would leave him for a few minutes she would often return to find him experimenting with her brushes.

The young artist, whose singleness of purpose and will power are the qualities one notices most about him, acknowledges also the considerable help that has been given him by Mr. Beebe and other friends.

He is quiet, reserved and modest in manner and speaks simply and directly of the things he has achieved and the goals he wishes to reach. When he is not drawing he reads but seldom listens to the radio and has no desire to own or watch TV.

"It would be a time waster for me," is his comment.

And "Fen" Lansdowne, who has triumphed over its once narrowly imposed limits, knows better than most of us that time is not a thing to waste.

Viewpoint of Treason Changes With Passing of War Hysteria

THE LORD OF WENSLEY, by Ernest Raymond, British Book Service, Toronto, 320 Pages, $3.25.

Ernest Raymond's latest novel, "The Lord of Wensley," is another striking example emphasizing that calm, rational treatment of some subjects is only possible between wars.

If it had been published during the hysteria of hate and feverish patriotism which is a concomitant of war in all countries the novel would have brought an avalanche of unreasoning wrath on the heads of the author and the publishers.

In these days readers will find it not only an engrossing story but a thought-provoking one.

Neither the cover design nor the title indicate what the story is about.

The Lord of Wensley is an English pub on Belham High Road in London. No aristocrats are involved. On the contrary it is very much a story of the ing the futility of the conflict and urging England to end it.

Naturally in England he was reviled as a traitor. The last ten chapters of the book are devoted to a dramatic description of his trial at Old Bailey on a charge of high treason.

The logical view of the boy's action expressed by his godfather, a lawyer, wartime chum of his father and confidant in the succeeding years may be regarded as sound philosophy now. Written in wartime it might have put the novel in the "book burning" class.

FOR REFORM

To an irate father, angered at the whole "damn silly nonsense" of his son belonging to the Black Shirt Movement, the friend points out it was not based on treason.

Love of their country prompted most of the members who belonged to it. They sought to reform England, to save it from the stranglehold of a class they believed responsible for millions of unemployed, the squalid conditions and crowded housing of some parts of London which were particularly impressed on the lad's mind because he was raised in that kind of area.

They were really patriotic young men, said the godfather, all for England but against the masters of England of that day. They believed a new World Movement would make a happier England for all.

He raised a spark of pride in the father for his son by pointing out that the Black Shirts' greatest battle was against the "bolshies" for whom the father, too, had a deep-rooted hostility.

YOUTH TENDENCY

The godfather also appeared as almost an apologist for the young Blackshirts by stressing the tendency of youth to hero-worship and intellectual superiority.

"Was there ever" he asks in one attempt to console the father, "an imaginative boy who didn't want to think himself the member of a camarilla, plotting some rebellion or other?"

From the dramatic opening to the even more dramatic ending Ernest Raymond has written an absorbing story of the Second World War years combining all the suspense, vivid description and atmosphere of the skillful fiction writer with the credibility of an author presenting an authentic chapter of history.

Paper made from papyrus stalks was invented about 4,000 years before the Christian era. It was partly superseded by vellum and parchment, which gave way in the 10th century to the type of paper used to day.

There are two tragedians in life. One is not to get your heart's desire. The other is to get it. —George Bernard Shaw.

IT'S MY VIEW
BY Bill Walker

It's been fun, really it has. And if this turns out to be nostalgic or maudlin, there's a reason. And a personal one.

For through the years that your old neighbor has occupied this pew, the co-operation he has received from one and all along the sports beat long will be a cherished memory.

Like attempting to describe the stars to the blind, mere words seem so meaningless and inadequate on this occasion.

Too much has gone before this day, to wrap it all up in one particular package of good-byes and, in many cases, with an understandable tinge of regret.

The wonderful, wonderful world of sport has supplied me with many thrills, as many chuckles, several life-long friends, and the trust is that, in some small part, those happenings have been adequately transcribed through the medium at my disposal.

But now it's time to say—not "good-bye," but "au-revoir"—to all that:

To the Shamrocks, who were born in a smoke-filled setting in a downtown room, weaned out of the dust of Stevenson Park, and eventually went on to become lacrosse champions of all Canada; yeah, even the world.

To Bob Fleming, a pink-faced youngster who set up housekeeping at Gorge Vale Golf Club under the paternal eye of pro Joe Pryke, and only recently quit those diggings for a fling at greatness that could easily be his. And to those of his kind.

With No Hard Feelings

To the Cougars, reliving a glorious page out of the distant past that once meant the ultimate—a Stanley Cup championship for the city, taking a title of their own along the present highway, and with no hard feelings for the time they locked the dressing room door.

To that grand bunch of anglers—the Solarium Derby Committee. With a job to do, a job they did for the crippled children, the true worth of which never will be explained in phrasings such as these.

To the diamond lovers: the Tyees, champions in their own class, rising out of the obscurity of the past and thence into that same obscurity again.

To Jim Tang down the hall, and the occasional feud. Often it was ominously quiet in the press box, high above the roar of the crowd, and a visitor was welcome, if only to bend the tension a trifle; but just as often, the wine of good fellowship prevailed, as it now does, and as we fight back the urge to fire one last parting shot, like:

"It Beats Me" how "My View" perturbed him.

To the midnight callers, revelling in their bliss, packing a $2 bet and demanding an answer. Long may they argue. And to the critics bess' em'. They kept the mind honest, and the copy, we hope, pure.

But this could go on forever, thoughts upon thoughts tumbling out of the past in a crescendo of keepsakes—the Dominos, the Bakers, the Chapmans, the Lakkies, the Fletchers, the Restells, the Humber, the Marlene Stewarts, et al... and the Miracle Mile.

Ted Had His Laugh

Or the time that Ted Reynolds, CJVI's gift to television, caught a frog in his throat, handed me the mike, and returned many minutes later, laughing like crazy at the predicament he had caused... or the exuberant Cougar fan who, when asked what he thought of the game, replied, "The Heidelberg—ish wonderful" . . . and trying to look the other way when Ernie Roche of the Cougars turned a fire nose on an unsuspecting teammate . . . or Ollie Goldsmith running through a hotel corridor vowing vengeance on the culprit who stole his pants and towel while he was bathing.

But the caption on the wall reads the same as it always did. "It's later than you think."

And so it is as I slide across the room to put an end to this nonsense at Suez.

But get help to the team that will carry the ball; it's a three-star attraction.

Denny Boyd will call signals in his own inimitable style; Doug Peden will speak of champions, because that is in his own right; while, Bill "I saw Don Larsen's no-hitter" Rayner will gladly show you his world series pin (The lucky stiff). Now, it's so long—and really, IT HAS BEEN FUN.

Sally, Sheri, Michael Score Swim 'Doubles'

There were three double winners Friday as House II captured top honors in the Oak Bay High School annual inter-house swim gala at the Crystal Garden.

The House II squad edged defending champion House I 78-70 in the aggregate.

Sally Holland scored a pair of firsts in the junior girls' division with victory in the 50-yard free style and backstroke events, while Miss Stott, won the senior girls' free style and breaststroke.

Other senior event winners were: Roland Hawes, 50-yard free style; Ron Brown, 50-yard backstroke; John Stott, 50-yard breast stroke; Tammy Hinch, girls' 50-yard backstroke.

Boyd to Captain New Sport Team, Walker Moves Up; Peden on Club

Three staff changes involving well-known sports department personnel were announced today by the Times.

Bill Walker, who for the past six years has been sports editor and conducted the popular column "It's My View," has been promoted to telegraph editor of the newspaper, handling cable news.

Denny Boyd has been promoted to sports editor, in which capacity he will continue to write his lively column "What's the Score?" For the past three years he has covered football, lacrosse and outdoor sports news for the Times.

One of Victoria's best-known athletes, Doug Peden, joins the Times staff, effective today. His first Times by-line appears on his story of the Cougar hockey game Friday night.

Peden, with his brother, Torchy, carried the Victoria banner into the world's top centres during the six-day bicycle race craze. The Peden "brother act" was one of the most successful in the sport.

Doug later played professional baseball and managed in the Pittsburgh Pirates chain. As an outstanding basketball player, he represented Canada at the 1936 Olympics and Victoria on two Canadian championship teams.

Peden, therefore, brings a wealth of knowledge, both as a player and manager, to the local sports scene.

Rounding out the Times' team of top sports writers is Bill Rayner, who is in the east after covering the world series for this newspaper. Rayner will pick up Victoria Cougars on their first road trip to the prairies, at Winnipeg, and report to fans here on their progress away from home.

'Too Small', Camille Packs Big Wallop

WHAT'S THE SCORE?

BY

Denny Boyd

This thing was on television the other night and it smashed a long-standing illusion.

We'd always been informed that one of the great moments in sports history occurred when Jack Dempsey plucked the heavyweight boxing crown from the gnarled head of Jess Willard.

The way the story has been built through the years, this was a moving moment, one that brings tears of nostalgia to the rheumy eyes of the oldsters who insist they don't fight like that anymore.

They'll tell you that this fight, way back on July 4, 1919, proved once and for all that a good little man is the equal of a good big man.

They'll say that Dempsey was a hungry fighter who was tired of living on bean sandwiches and had hunger cramps that only a champion's gate split could satisfy.

They'll say that Willard was a grand champion who went out like a grand champion, a smile on his face and all guns firing.

They'll say that this was one of the greatest fights in ring history.

But the way the television eye showed it, on a re-run of the official fight films, this was a cold-eyed killer mutilating a fat, clumsy glandular case who couldn't get off his heels long enough to dodge a punch.

Understand, now, we're not saying this as a witness, only as one who derived his evidence from a 21-inch screen.

Match Seemed a Natural

Willard had won the heavyweight title from Jack Johnson in Havana under peculiar circumstances and it seemed a natural to match him with Dempsey, the brutal ring roustabout who had fought barefisted in mining camps for whatever a passed hat could collect.

There was a legend around that Willard, in a fit of anger, had once smote a sparring partner with such power that both the partner and the corner post had been knocked 10 feet out of the ring. Not too many people believed this, however.

So here they were, on this muggy, July day.

In this corner was Willard, a 250-pound grinning giant with a great roll of fat around his middle, almost obscuring the waist-band of his shorts.

Willard was the happy giant, waving his mitts to ring-side friends.

In the other corner was Dempsey, scowling at Willard like a butcher eying an inferior cut of meat.

Dempsey was lithe, solidly-muscled and his cheeks were blue with wiry stubble that, in theory, would turn aside the sharpness of a punch as steel wool would dull a razor blade. He was dressed in ridiculous shorts that reached his knees.

The bell rang for round one but the noise of the crowd was so great that neither fighter heard it. They had to be waded to the centre of the ring by referee Pecord.

Bully Belaboring Fat Boy

Once in the centre of the ring, it was Dempsey, swarming over the bewildered Willard. It was the neighborhood bully belaboring the fat boy next door when Mamma was out of earshot.

Five times Willard went down in that first round, lapsing in sections as his bulk trembled under Dempsey's punches. Only once did Dempsey go to a neutral corner. The other four times, he pawed impatiently at the referee's back. Once, while Willard was wearily raising his racked body, with his head in a corner, Dempsey rushed past the referee and pounded away at Willard's kidneys.

Although Willard's face and body were a chopping block, and Dempsey's fists were axes, they let it go three rounds before Willard himself, not the referee or his seconds, called a halt to it. It was some nonsense about a champion being required to go out fighting, no matter how badly damaged.

The fight lasted three rounds. Nine short minutes. But in that time, Willard had his nose smashed like a squashed orange, his jaw broken, six teeth knocked out and three ribs cracked.

And they still call it one of the great moments in sports history.

Rory Calhoun Whips High-Trunks John L.

CLEVELAND, O. (UPI) — Fast-rising young middleweight Rory Calhoun of White Plains, N.Y., earned a fistful of future bouts with an eight-round technical knockout of England's John L. Sullivan in a nationally televised fight in Cleveland Arena Friday night.

Calhoun, favored 8-5 going into the bout, floored Sullivan with a right-left-right combination to close the seventh round, and Cleveland referee Jackie Davis called off the aggressive bather only nine seconds into the eighth.

Managers of both fighters agreed earlier the winner would meet Joe Giardello of Philadelphia here next month. But Calhoun's manager, Frank Bachman, said two other matches were possible.

"There's been some talk of a fight with Charlie Josephs in New Orleans and Tiger Jones in New York—also (Spider) Webb, anywhere but Chicago," Webb took a split decision from Calhoun—his only defeat—in the windy city's last time out.

Calhoun, well satisfied with the victory, conceded, "Eng. gishman 'hurt me a couple of times."

"That boy can punch," he said after his first Cleveland appearance. "But I started picking my spots and I knew I had him. I was ready to keep going in."

the eighth, but the ref grabbed me."

Davis said after the bout that Sullivan wore his trunks "too high" but took one point from Calhoun in the fourth and another in the seventh for punches he said "looked bad."

There was a warning in the first violation, and Calhoun complained to the official later.

Sullivan, on the losing side in nine U.S. fights, sat alone and dejected in his dressing room, sulky and unwilling to discuss the defeat. Earlier he had commented, "opponents are better in the United States," an opinion Calhoun enforced with a solid attack.

ASSURED OF TIE FOR LEAD

Drakes 'In' Well, Almost

Drakes 14, Navy 6

By DENNY BOYD

Oak Bay Drakes, their teeth sharpened for revenge, took a four-point bite out of the Victoria Intermediate Football League standings Friday night and settled back with a contented burp, assured of at least a tie for first place in the final standings.

Drakes won the game they had to win to keep possession of first place, beating down the stubborn, always dangerous Navy club, 14-6. The victory was in atonement for the 21-13 loss that Navy handed the Oak Bay club in their last set-to. Drakes' only blot on an otherwise perfect record.

The league is in a bit of an uproar at the present moment, with at least one team being dissatisfied with the revised league schedule. Monday's previously scheduled game between Navy and Vampires has been postponed while league officials try to work out the schedule kinks.

But no matter what happens, Drakes opened up a four-point lead Friday and they will have at least a share of first-place when the schedule runs out.

Friday's game was a stodgy, mauling battle that was fought on the ground with Oak Bay's superiority in the line throwing the scales in their favor.

Drakes' beefy defensive line, led by the relentless barricading of middle-guard Trev West, threw Navy ball-carriers for big losses and held the sailors to net rushing total of only 81 yards.

Drakes, on the other hand, picked up 284 yards on the ground. Quarterback Tom Sam-regret wove a grind-em-down pattern, battering the Navy inner defences with plunges by Rick Ginn and Ted Koska through the middle and then shook Gordy Hemmingway and Johnny Whan loose around the ends for the two touchdowns.

There was no scoring in the first quarter but Drakes capitalized on a Navy gamble in the second quarter.

FUMBLE HURTS

On their own 40, Navy tried to run on third down but a fumble and an Oak Bay recovery gave Drakes a first down on the Navy 31. Ginn tore loose around the end behind deadly blocking and was pushed out of bounds on the 10. After two plays gained only a yard, Pete Turko missed his third field goal attempt but picked up one point on an automatic rouge.

After a short Navy punt, which gained only seven yards, Whan picked up 36 yards on a pitchout and Hemmingway shook off two tacklers on the next play to score from 20 yards out. The convert was missed.

Whan's nine-yard spurt around left end in the fourth quarter iced the Oak Bay lead to 13-0 and they bumped it to 14-0 on Koska's missed field goal attempt that rolled through for a single.

BROWN SPARKLES

Navy came back, full of fire late in the game, combining three complete passes, a 12-yard run by Chuck Thomas and three penalties to Drakes to go to the Drake 20. Thomas hit Ray Sherblin with a bulls-eye pass to the four and Thomas went over from there.

Navy tackle Doug Brown pulled his club out of numerous holes with his tremendous punting. He hoisted one for 54 yards and his 39-yard average on eight kicks included one kick that was partially blocked and good for only seven yards.

Port Alberni Waitress Committed, Freed on Bail After Long Hearing

ALBERNI—Port Alberni waitress Doreen Lockner, 19, Friday was committed for trial after a preliminary hearing on a charge of offering indignity to a dead human body.

The committal to a higher court was ordered by Magistrate Thomas Patterson following a lengthy hearing at which three other accused gave details of the Greenwood grave-opening case.

Miss Lockner was freed on $1,000 bail and is expected to appear for trial before Nanaimo County Court Judge L. A. Hanna at Alberni.

William Harold Nelson, 18, who gave evidence at the hearing, was sentenced Thursday to two years less a day definite, and two years less a day indefinite, at the same charge.

David Windsor Ferguson, 19, will appear for preliminary hearing Wednesday. Jean Gibson, 17, who was transferred from juvenile court, is still to elect trial.

Miss Gibson told the court that neither she nor Miss Lockner had said or done anything to assist or encourage the two men in digging into the grave sometimes between midnight and 2 a.m. on September 24.

Drank Whiskey Straight From Bottle

The girl said she wasn't drunk, but admitted drinking whisky straight from the bottle. "I was not drunk, but I was feeling silly."

She related, under protection of the Canada Evidence Act, that she had first visited the cemetery on the night in question with Ferguson. Nelson and another Port Alberni waitress, Wilma Vanderhorst.

"Wilma and I both got out of the car. We went over to the grave to see if they really were digging it up. They had dug about to the coffin. Right after that we took Wilma home."

Then they met the Lockner girl and the four returned to the cemetery.

She said she and Miss Lockner watched "Bill and Dave trying to get the coffin out. We looked in the grave but didn't see anything. We saw something when the two boys lifted the boards."

"It was very dark. They had a light going with a piece of paper. Doreen (Lockner) lit the paper with a lighter. I was holding it and handed it to one of the boys."

She said from time to time she and the Lockner girl "became scared" and returned to the car. She said one of the boys hooked a chain to the body. She and Nelson stood by to watch the body come out of the grave, dragged by the car.

"Bill and I just saw some movement coming out of the grave. We never stayed to watch. We ran to the car; we were pretty scared."

Nelson told the court he and Ferguson had visited the cemetery earlier in the evening with Elsie Krevinski and Norma Walton, both teenagers. The girls had not been drinking but his memory of the events, he said, was fogged by drink. The sight of the body sobered him.

"I can remember from there."

Ferguson, also speaking under protection of the Canada Evidence Act, said Nelson had brought liquor from a Vancouver liquor store. He said after the digging was started, "for some reason, we didn't want to do it any more. We drove back to Port Alberni and met Doreen."

"When they started . . . we started drinking more heavily. We threw away the mixers and drank straight whisky then."

Asked if it was fair to say Doreen Lockner didn't do anything to assist or encourage the boys, he replied, "No, not exactly. I know that she must have wanted to see. If she hadn't wanted to go out there, we wouldn't have taken her. We wouldn't have forced her."

Police testified a woman's shoe print was found on top of the casket.

Vancouver lawyer Paul Paine, defending Miss Lockner, said participation in the crime had not been proven with regard to his client.

PORT ALBERNI—At the same time that the Esquimalt and Nanaimo Railway is trying to eliminate its rail passenger service between here and Nanaimo, a local trucking firm is attempting to spread its operations northward and southward on Vancouver Island.

Chemainus and District Chamber of Commerce this week recommended to the superintendent of motor carriers that consideration be given to granting a licence to West Coast Freight Limited of Port Alberni to operate a freight pick-up and delivery service from Duncan to the north of the Island.

President W. Bowles told the meeting that the proposed pick-up and delivery service would be in competition with Island Freight.

"They are prepared to give daily service from Vancouver, leaving Vancouver at 6 p.m. and arriving in Chemainus the following morning, giving special attention to perishable merchandise and shipments of an urgent nature," he said.

Members were of the opinion that Island Freight was providing a good enough service to Chemainus, but that a competitive line could only result in still better service.

Meanwhile the Vancouver Island Ratepayers Association, determined to see extension of the passenger service, the railway hopes to drop, is preparing a brief for submission to the Board of Transport Commissioners.

G. E. Bonner of Cobble Hill, president of the association, said the brief will ask the Board of Transport for a public hearing in Nanaimo.

The CPR, which operates the E and N line, has proposed to abandon the passenger service because bus service and the increased number of passenger cars have cut down demand for train service.

Mr. Bonner said earlier the ratepayers will ask the transport commissioners to establish a dayliner service in addition to the present passenger service.

She said from time to time she and the Lockner girl "became scared" and returned to the car. She said one of the boys hooked a chain to the body. She and Nelson stood by to watch the body come out of the grave, dragged by the car.

SIGNIFICANT WORDS

Oneness of Christ God, Dean's Choice

(The following is the fifth in a series of weekly discussions with ministers of churches in the Greater Victoria area, who will be asked to comment on Biblical passage which holds the most significance for them.)

"And the Word was made flesh, and dwelt among us, and we beheld His glory . . . Gospel according to St. John, chapter 1, verse 14.

"It's difficult to say that any one text is basic to Christianity," said Dean Brian Whitlow, Christ Church Cathedral.

"But this verse is among the foremost in the Bible."

"Christians believe that Jesus Christ was much more than a great teacher."

"The thing that divides Christians from other people is that they believe Jesus was, in fact, God."

"Some people think of the Sermon on the Mount as being the very centre of the Gospel and sometimes seem to think as if that is what the Gospel is all about."

"Moses, Socrates and Confucius have given us beautiful teachings. It isn't His teachings especially that make Christ unique."

"We Christians believe that in Christ, God acted by sending His Son. That is why this text is so basic."

"Christ is God's word translated into human flesh, so that when men saw Jesus, they saw God."

"Things that made Jesus angry make God angry. Things that pleased Jesus please God. Jesus was the God-Man."

"Christians understand that God was acting in Christ, that when Christ did something or when people did something to Christ, these things were being done by God and to God."

"Those who had the eyes to see perceived the glory to God veiled for the time being within the outward form of a Jewish carpenter."

An honors graduate from Oxford University, Dean Whitlow came to Victoria in 1955 with Mrs. Whitlow, their son Simon, 13, and daughter Hilary, 11.

Dean Whitlow was formerly rector of Wakeham and York in Quebec.

Early Autumn Wedding Bells

Brides of autumn radiate a warmth and loveliness reflecting the glow of the season's changing leaves. Vibrant chrysanthemums in splashes of yellow, bronze and russet-flame bank altars for ceremonies that unite friends and families in the joy of the occasion and season. And when the bride appears, preceded by attendants gowned in hues to complement the autumn setting, it is easy to understand why more and more young couples are choosing late season wedding days.

Pictured as they left for their wedding reception at the Royal Victoria Yacht Club are Mr. Garth N. Corke and his bride, the former Miss Lois Digby. The young couple were wed in St. George the Martyr Church at Cadboro Bay. The bride is the daughter of Mrs. F. Digby, 490 Vancouver, and her groom, the son of Mrs. L. M. Corke, 3375 Quadra Street. (Joncas Photo.)

Rev. D. R. Pilkey looks on while newlyweds, Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Downs sign the register following their marriage in Esquimalt United Church. The bride is the former Miss Evelyn Mary Holland, daughter of Lieut. and Mrs. G. M. Holland, 1294 Park Terrace. Her groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. A. Downs. A reception party followed at Gorge Vale Golf Club. (Chevron Photo.)

This formal wedding portrait is of Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Robert Hurley, whose marriage took place in a ceremony in Oak Bay United Church. The bride is the former Miss Alice Klapatin, daughter of Mrs. D. Huff, Edmonton. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Hurley, 1841 St. Ann Street. (Joncas Photo.)

Music Box for Baby's Crib Soothes Your Nerves, Too

By PEGGY SAVER

A tinkling music-box tune seems to have a soothing effect on even the most fretful child, and many mothers have a little music-box to be used especially when it's naptime for the youngsters. From Switzerland come the novelty music-boxes that are meant for baby's crib or buggy. Two cord ribbons fasten the plastic box to the top of the crib. A knob at the bottom is attached to a cord inside the box. Pull the cord down and immediately you hear the tinkling of "Brahm's Lullaby." It plays for three minutes. When the baby wakes in the middle of the night, set the music-box into operation and chances are he'll drop right off to sleep again. In pale green with a perky lamb on the front, or in pale blue with a toy soldier marching smartly, these cleverly-designed music-boxes are $4.95.

In town again for skating enthusiasts are wool and nylon tights at a very good price. These are $3.95. Velveteen skating hats that keep ears warm and are so very attractive, too, come in warm, vibrant colors to go with your skating costume. Long ties go into neat bows beneath your chin. Rhinestones trim many styles, and still others are completely plain. Priced from $2.95 to $5.95, they are in gold, red, pink, plum, brown, turquoise, orange or black.

Oh so dressy are the pearl and pearlized earrings that come neatly boxed for your own dresser or for someone else's. These are the popular snap-on type earrings that have removable centres. In the box are the basic earrings with pearl centres and around this pair are extra centres in pearlized grey, trims.

For Eating Vegetables Fork, Not Spoon, Is Proper

About using spoon to cut vegetables: In my day it was correct to use a spoon for any vegetable served in a sauce dish with the exception of cole slaw. Any vegetable served on the dinner plate was eaten with a fork.

Davis

My granddaughter is being taught to eat all vegetables with a fork, whether or not in a sauce dish. The other day the poor little thing was trying very hard to eat cattash with her fork. I have made no comment, but it certainly looks silly to me. Besides the vitamins and butter in the liquid go to waste. What is considered the best manners today?

Louise Davis answers: The accepted usage of eating

Playing Hockey Is One Way To Foster Sportsmanship

By NANCY CLEAVER

Here's to hockey, a truly Canadian sport and a game which has become popular all over North America and Europe! In the 1870's a game with the players on skates hitting a ball with a stick was played on the ice on many Canadian rivers and lakes.

A group of players at McGill University, Montreal, thought that the round ball went too far when struck and thus slowed up the game. A bright student took a knife, cut off two pieces from either side of the ball, and produced the first rough puck!

The early hockey games were played with an indefinite and usually large number of players on each side. Later the number on each team was gradually reduced to the standard sixteen-man team of today.

Nancy

From Canada the popularity of hockey spread to our neighbor to the south late in the last century. Early in this century British and then European countries were attracted by the speed of the skaters, and the brilliant teamwork necessary for success. Each winter the eyes of sport fans are on the hockey battles in the Olympic games and national competitions. Radio added greatly to the number of hockey enthusiasts and now TV has gained a lot more hockey supporters.

Hockey is played in every place large and small from the Atlantic to the Pacific, from the 49th parallel to the North Pole. Many thoughtful citizens regret the great outcry from some quarters when our Canadian team was defeated by the Russians in the Olympic games.

Most parents prefer that the molders of public opinion place emphasis on good sportsmanship rather than on the necessity of winning! Fortunately

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Several times a year I give a day or so to the men who read this column. Recently I wrote about the tendency to slump in standards of good grooming from middle age on. There is an important correlation between an interest in personal appearance and morale and self-respect.

I think you will be interested in the following tips about dress for men which comes from Francis Pratt, president of the American Institute of Men's and Boys' Wear. Here they are:

1. Avoid extremes. For example, narrow brimmed hats are the current rage but they may not suit the shape of your face. Homburgs or wider brimmed hats may be more becoming.

2. Favor blue, dark blue-grey and grey tones if your hair is grey.

3. Go along with current trends if they compliment your appearance. Do not think that they were designed strictly for the younger set.

4. Bold about colors. Unless your selection is too vivid, color is usually on your side in the battle of the ages.

5. Avoid drab, uninteresting trends in sportswear. For instance, sport shirts in plaids are currently the vogue and look well on the 40-plus group.

6. Avoid tight fitting garments, particularly if you are on the portly side. Looser garments, perhaps single-breasted styles, may not quite succeed in creating the illusion of a svelte line but will help de-emphasize the middle-aged spread.

7. Avoid draped pearls once found only in natural pearl tone are now seen in taupe, warm Lido blue and soft greens. Simply designed gold and silver-like costume pieces are a good daytime choice. Colored stones may be perfect if they are chosen carefully for just one outfit but should not be so snug that one requires quite an extensive collection of jewelry to really enjoy flamboyant pieces.

With dresses so strongly reminiscent of the 1912 era, we see the return of longer length necklaces and bibs of beads. Occasionally for late day we see necklaces swung to the back in keeping with the low back cocktail and evening dresses.

8. Simulated pearls, once found only

in natural pearl tone are now seen in taupe, warm Lido blue and soft greens. Simply designed gold and silver-like costume pieces are a good daytime choice. Colored stones may be perfect if they are chosen carefully for just one outfit but should not be so snug that one requires quite an extensive collection of jewelry to really enjoy flamboyant pieces.

Amber-like stones are an excellent choice for all shades of beige, brown and green. Antique-like silver pieces are lovely on green, all blues and greys. Sparkling rhinestones are a perfect foil for late-day black.

A beautifully feminine revival in jewelry is the circlet of jewels worn in the hair. This circlet may be a coronet or crown for very formal occasions or, if you have long hair, an intriguing band of sparkle may be wound around your bun.

Just coming into the fashion picture are "chignon sticks" of many varieties. Simple and unadorned for daytime and jewel-encrusted for evening. This fashion is one which is definitely set apart for the woman with long hair.

A few well-chosen pieces of jewelry can do much to tone up a dress or suit which you have had for some time.

Experiment a little. Try your favorite pin in a different place. Use a pair of earrings as matching clips on the lapel of your suit. Have fun with your costume jewelry.

Electric Griddle Helps Solve Pancake Problems

One of the big advantages of the electric griddle is that it controls the heat to the exact temperature required—380°. This removes one of the problems of pancake making and anyone can turn out marvelous pancakes with this new aid to modern cooking.

If you use an electric griddle and add melted or liquid shortening to your batter, you will find that it is not necessary to grease the griddle. Just wipe it over with a piece of wax paper before you start pouring your batter.

DESIGNED FOR CANADA

The couturiers press showings in Montreal have proven the acceptability of the clothes they are presenting this year.

Each ensemble combines the top noted fashion features for this season—but with a difference. Each designer has a touch that is noticeable.

But, in order to keep this gradual change from being unbecoming, a woman should adjust to it as it comes, also gradually. She shouldn't wear clothes that are getting too tight, then suddenly jump a size. The too-tight clothes will make her look bulgy and the sudden jump will call attention to the change.

This problem can be solved by careful clothes purchases. Straight skirts should be selected for depth of seams. Perhaps one will prefer to move from straight skirts to gored ones, which allow a weight gain without becoming too small. Clothes that are snug now will surely be uncomfortable soon. Avoid them.

The way rings fit is also important. Don't let them get too tight. A jeweler can flesh them so they won't cut into the flesh.

Reheating vegetables is hard on the vitamins. Why not serve leftover vegetables in cold salads or cream them with cheese-flavored cream sauce?

Shred fresh B.C. cabbage very fine. Add to rapidly boiling water. Bring back to a boil; reduce heat to simmer. Cook for 7 to 8 minutes. Drain and season to taste. This short method gives crisp, fully-flavored cabbage.

VISITORS FROM ENGLAND

Spending several months in Victoria with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Rossiter, 1021 Wychbury Avenue, is Mrs. C. G. Meek and children, Ursula Gail and Robert Anthony. Mrs. Meek and family have come from England, where her husband, Lieut. Meek, has been stationed with the Royal Canadian Navy. In December, they will join him in Halifax, where they expect to be living for two years.

FAMILY FROM VANCOUVER

Pictured in their new home, 4081 Cedar Hill Cross Road, are Mrs. Eric Peck and her children, Janice, eight years old, and Norman, three, who have recently moved from Vancouver to join Mr. Peck, recently appointed store manager of Dickins and Dunn.

Christmas in October For Women of the Moose

A decorative theme carried out for luncheon will be sponsored by miniature snowmen made of the junior regent, Mrs. E. Cooper, cookies and marshmallows for favors, and supper tables decorated with pine boughs and gay ornaments, created a "Christmas in October" atmosphere at a recent meeting of Victoria Chapter No. 25, Women of the Moose.

Altars were decorated with vases of chrysanthemums and tinsel and centring the head supper table was a birthday cake decorated with a Christmas scene and flanked by red candles. Completing the effect was a lighted tree.

Mrs. P. Booth and Mrs. I. Smith, chairmen of Mooseheart and Moosehaven were in charge of arrangements.

A painting, won by Mrs. I. Holmes, and the attendance prize by Mrs. C. Lokkin.

Plans were made for serving tea at the Aged Pensioners No. 5 bazaar, on Nov. 7, in K of P Hall, with Miss D. Guelph's committee in charge. Announcement was made that final plans and pricing of articles for the fall bazaar will be held on Oct. 22 at Miss Guelph's home, 2538 Fernwood Road. A but-

BEASTALL ADVISES

Soil-Making and Composting Simple if Fully Understood

By JACK BEASTALL

Last week's column on manufacturing soil brought many telephone calls and letters indicating both the interest in, and problems of, improving soil in a small garden.

Making compost seemed to be the greatest problem, but to go into the details of compost making with all the "ifs, ands buts" is too large a subject for the confines of this column.

Places from which to obtain the whole story are the Victoria Public Library, the Provincial Library for those living outside Victoria, and the Department of Agriculture and Experimental Farm.

Sir Albert Howard has written extensively on improving the soils of India with compost, and Miss Maye E. Bruce devised a method suited to the small gardener. Falkener and Bromfield have many books on soil conservation, their later writings pointing out, in the light of experience, the errors of their earlier beliefs.

READ WIDELY

I would suggest that gardeners read all available books on soils and composting, remembering that each book contains the opinions of the writer for improving the conditions existing in his part of the world and under which he has to work.

Having read a number of opinions, gardeners may then select and adapt those most suited to their own conditions, and devise a method which is a compromise of those suggested by the writers.

PENNY USED AS FUSE ASKING FOR TROUBLE

Two city electrical inspectors today issued a Fire Prevention Week warning against use of pennies behind burned fuses.

Inspectors "Mel" Schwartz and A. E. "Bob" Cunningham pointed out that though the pennies may restore the light, the resultant overload on household wiring can mean loss of a home, or loss of human life.

They tell of the house which is waiting to burn down.

While it was being a carpenter put pennies behind 15 ampere fuses. He thus permitted 600 amperes or 40 times the power to flow through the household circuit. It was enough to run his Sanders, polishers, saws and other high-powered tools.

The wires were aged in a few hours. They have charred and become brittle. Where the wiring crosses wooden surfaces behind the plaster, it is charred too. Now, even though there are 15-ampere fuses installed, a certain combination of electrical appliances working will likely cause a disastrous fire.

The moral is, if one notices blackened fuse holes when buying a house, arrange for a complete electrical inspection. House builders should insist on rigid control of power tools used in the construction period. And everyone should avoid using pennies behind burned fuses. If fuses keep blowing it is because the wiring system is "carrying too heavy a load."

Continue to permit that and another fire will probably result.

Decorating Errors Are Costly; It Pays Not To Be Ignorant

By MR. FIX

Some of the most grievous mistakes in the line of home repair, maintenance and improvement are made by people who choose to ignore, or fail to make themselves familiar with, recommended practices.

There are pitfalls galore, and the unwary totter into them more often than not.

For example, the seemingly foolproof job of decorating gypsum wallboard walls with paint, wallpaper or other coverings has snared its share of unsuspecting victims. The number-one reason — improper preparation of the surface, or none at all.

"Plasterboard" as it is known, like plaster, must be primed and sealed before most finishing materials can be applied. This is chiefly because of differences in absorption between the field of gypsum board and the special cement that's used to cover nail-head depressions and joints between panels of the board.

If the priming-sealing precaution is not taken, the surfaces will not be uniformly covered, and the finish may be subject to "fogging," peeling or cracking. Take it from The Gypsum Association.

EXCEPTION One finish is an exception to the rule. Most latex-base paints require no sealer when applied on gypsum board.

On the other hand, when "sizing" is called for, not just any primer or sealer will do, according to the gypsum manufacturers. Glue size, for instance, is out, although its use has long been practised. Paints adhere to it poorly. And, since glue is brittle and also soluble in water, adhesion is even worse if moisture is present. Sooner or later, peeling is almost inevitable.

Shellac and shellac substitutes are not satisfactory, either, for similar reasons, although shellac is not as greatly affected by water as glue size.

It appears, then, that you have three good paint primers or sealers from which to choose. They are pigmented varnish primer, pigmented resin-emulsion sealer, and lime-locking cold water primer. In addition, such sealers as sizing varnish or high-gloss varnish cut 25 per cent with turpentine are recommended as wallpaper primers.

Of the paint primers, lime-locking cold water primer has container frequently to maintain the proper consistency.

Under normal atmospheric conditions, wait 12 to 18 hours before applying the final decoration. In rainy or humid weather, a longer period — 36 to 48 hours — may be necessary for the primer to dry.

Wallpaper or similar materials should never be applied to gypsum wallboard without first priming the surface. For one thing, a sealer protects the wallboard when removal of the covering becomes necessary.

In any case, be sure to read the instructions on the container before using any preparatory or finishing material. The success of the job may depend on how closely you follow directions with regard to surface preparation, mixing, tinting and application.

For a heated conservatory attached to a home, pot up some spring flowering shrubs; Forstya suspensa, Deutzia, Prunus triloba, early outdoor azaleas. Root well outdoors, then grow in 45 degree F.

mixing, stir the paint in

Vacancies Exist In 'Build Your Own Home' Course

There are still a few vacancies in the VLA "build your own home" course at the Royal Oak High School, while another course opens at the Patricia Bay High School in North Saanich October 15.

The course consists of 18 to 20 two-hour periods of practical instruction.

The courses were originally intended for veterans, but where openings exist, non-veterans may register.

VLA office, room 709, Belmont Building, has further particulars.

FIX-IT FORUM

Q.—One of our windows (the wooden double-hung variety) will not open fully by itself. The lower sash goes part way up and stops. It can be pushed all the way to the top easily enough, but it won't stay there. What's wrong with it? —Mrs. B.K.

A.—Chances are the window-weight cord is too long or has stretched so that the sash will not be carried to the top of the frame. The cord, attached to a weight which is concealed within the window frame, should be adjusted or replaced.

We need more storage and living space!

free plans and
SYLVAPLY PLYWOOD
answer home storage space problems easily... quickly... handsomely... economically!

Your lumber dealer has these plans... has many more... and they're free for you! Come in and get as many as you want. Find out how you can make these units in your spare time. Yes, with simple woodworking tools you can create storage space wherever you need it with self-framing Sylvaply in $\frac{1}{2}$ " or $\frac{3}{4}$ " thicknesses. You can create extra living space in attic and basement too, or panel over old walls to give your home new beauty, with $\frac{1}{4}$ " Sylvaply plain or decorative plywood. If you prefer to have it done for you, you save too, because Sylvaply is the choice of professional builders, used in thousands of ways from roof sheathing and subflooring to cupboards and cabinets. And wherever it is in use it adds strength and beauty, adds long life, utility, and value.

MODERN KITCHEN CABINETS: or a brand new kitchen, the Sylvaply kitchen cabinet booklet answers your kitchen storage and remodelling problems! Now you can have cupboards for canned goods, shelves for appliances, cabinets for pots and pans... room for everything! It's a booklet that will save you many dollars... and it's absolutely free! Be sure to get your copy at your lumber dealer's.

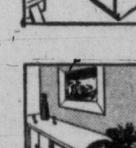

BEDROOM STORAGE WALL: solves clothing storage problems from suits to socks! Designed for easy building with 4'x 8' Sylvaply panels, can be built to any size in any bedroom. Has a "his" and "hers" section, costs about one-third the retail price to make! Average skill with ordinary woodworking tools, and the free plan can create this unit for any family. Start on it this weekend!

LIVING ROOM ENTRY DIVIDER: a boon for the home without an entrance hall! Gives your living room new dimension, gives you storage space for books, records, glassware on one side... has a closet on the hall side, and uses only a 12" strip of floor space! Be sure to see your lumber dealer for a free plan... this home improvement project is a beauty!

WORK BENCH WITH CABINETS: the do-it-yourselfer's basic need. Has storage space for everything: tools, nails, screws... and best of all, is sturdy, strong, easy to make. So well designed, you'll want to paint it and make it a recreation room feature! Free Sylvaply plan shows you precisely how to go about making this essential unit.

FLOOR CABINETS: for dining room, den, everywhere you need counter height storage space. Beauty of building them with Sylvaply is the simplicity of construction... and the free plan tells precisely what to do. Peter Whittall, Canada's Mr. Do-it-yourself prepared the plan, so you know they're easy to make!

NOW in addition to famous Sylvacord, Canada's leading decorative plywood, your lumber dealer has four new decorative plywoods for wall paneling projects.

BLOCKLINE: plywood with a pattern of rectangular plaques.

BEACHCOMBER: has a weathered grain textured surface.

PINSTRIPE: with vertical line texture for a pleasant decorative effect.

TRENDWALL: grooved surface to simulate vertical planks.

The Jones Boys

Rock Oakalla;

Both Set Free

(From The Canadian Press)

VANCOUVER—The whole of Oakalla Prison Farm was talking about the Jones boys Friday.

It began when Roland Jones,

25, walked out of the jail after signing his name to release formal meant for Richard Jones, also 25, but no relative.

Roland was serving a six-month term for theft and was not due for release until Dec.

29. Richard was scheduled to be freed Friday at the end of a

30-day term for resisting arrest.

The mistake was discovered when Richard complained that nothing was being done about his release.

Prison officials described the mistake as "inexcusable," but pointed out that both men are five feet six inches tall, weigh within five pounds of each other and have "dark hair, brown eyes and copper complexions."

They said Roland signed the release form in a perfect imitation of Richard's signature.

Police were still looking for Roland Friday night. Richard was freed as originally scheduled.

MURDER, SUICIDE

VANCOUVER—A middle-aged

Vancouver couple were found dead with gunshot wounds in their heads Friday in their modest duplex apartment in South Vancouver.

Dead are Dick Baxter, a real estate salesman, and his wife.

Detective Inspector Peter Lamont said "it looks like a murder-suicide."

Police said no note was left but there was no suggestion of suicide.

Inspector Lamont said it was

MARILYN'S STORY, PICTURES TODAY

In simple words and glorious picture color, the 120-page Times today carries the first-person story of a schoolgirl's conquest of Juan de Fuca Strait.

Marilyn Bell, in the Weekend magazine section, tells about her hopes, aspirations, despair and "sticktoitiveness" which beat the Strait of Juan de Fuca from south to north last August.

Canada's top woman swim star emerges as no profoundly ambitious person, but as a sportswoman who has warmed the hearts of young and old from Juan de Fuca to the Strait of Belle Isle in the east.

Her swim record even before she endeared herself to Victorians, speaks for itself. In the ballyhoo—which must be admitted was warranted in her swims—she kept a level head at all times, and expressed amazement that the eyes of all Canada and much of the world focused on her. Juan de Fuca may well be her last big swim, she indicates. This could sadden those who have followed her career with an interest accorded few athletes.

Marilyn is studying physiotherapy at McGill University in Montreal now, a natural progression from the years she taught crippled children to swim.

Quebec Voting Critic Gagged?

QUEBEC (CP)—Abbe Louis O'Neill, co-author of a stinging attack on Quebec's electoral methods, has been "invited to refrain from writing for publication and from public speaking" for one year by the authorities of Laval University, it was reliably learned today.

Simultaneously Abbe O'Neill, who wrote the controversial 4,000-word article in collaboration with Abbe Gerard Dion, director of the department of industrial relations at Laval, was relieved of his post of professor of moral philosophy at Le Petit Séminaire and assigned to teach logic in the same institution.

A source within the university, who asked that his name not be published, said the change was ordered by "a high authority."

NO COMMENT

Superior of Le Petit Séminaire, Quebec province's oldest institution for secondary education and, in effect, a classical college directly affiliated with Laval, declined to comment.

Msgr. Adrien Faladeau said: "I have nothing to say. This matter is outside my jurisdiction." Abbe O'Neill declined to deny or confirm the report. He said simply: "I want to say nothing. Go wherever you wish for information but don't ask me to say anything."

The Laval informant said Abbe O'Neill was asked verbally, not in writing, to abstain from making public statements. He added that such an order might well be relaxed within a year, perhaps in a few months, although a time limit of one year was mentioned to Abbe O'Neill.

The article on Quebec's electoral methods was originally written by politicians.

NASHUA WINS FINAL

NEW YORK (Special)—In a blaze of glory, the curtain came down this afternoon on the racing career of Nashua when he won his last race, the $50,000 added Jockey Club Gold Cup. The world's top money-winning horse beat Riley and Third Brother, running the two miles in 3:20.25 to set a new U.S. record for the distance.

published in Ad Usum Sacerdotum, a mimeographed publication that circulates among clergymen. Text of the article found its way into newspapers.

ACCUSES CLERGY

At the time, the two priests declined to give their names as the authors of the article on orders from their superiors. Their names were later carried by a Montreal newspaper.

The article, intended to be read by Roman Catholic priests, accused Quebec's political parties of buying votes, corrupting electoral officers and creating a scarecrow of communism without justification. It also said members of the clergy were not beyond accepting favors from politicians.

ANCIENT LAW PROVES HANDY

British High Court Makes Tanya Ward

LONDON (AP)—Tanya Chwastow, halted in flight with her father from the United States to Soviet Russia, has been made a ward of the British high court under a law first devised to keep wicked squires from snaring poor little rich girls.

A judge rule within 21 days on the fate of the 2½-year-old girl under a court order obtained Friday on behalf of her mother, Mrs. Helena Dieczok, 24, of Detroit, to hold her in Britain.

By order of the court, Tanya debarred with her father, Alexis Chwastow, 58, from the 7,500-ton Russian ship Viacheslav Molotov, which was to have carried them to Leningrad. The ship sailed without them.

The law specifies "the welfare of the child be paramount."

The law was originally drawn up to protect orphan heiresses from villainous suitors in the days when a woman's wealth automatically became the property of her husband on marriage.

By making a child heiress a permanent ward of court, the court could require suitors to get its permission to marry her and could weed out all but the upright and honorable.

A decision awarding Tanya to her father would clear the way for him to take the child to Russia. She could be returned to the United

NO SIGN OF LIFE

Search Planes Spot Life Raft

LONDON (AP)—Search planes today spotted what at first was believed to be two life rafts in the Atlantic area where a giant American airliner vanished three days ago—but one of the supposed rafts later proved to be a decomposed whale.

The search planes' crews radioed they saw no sign of life on or near the objects in the ocean off Spain.

An earlier report said there appeared to be one man on one of the Gibson girl rafts capable of holding 20 men.

However, U.S. Air Force headquarters announced:

"No sign of life was observed on either of two life rafts observed from the air."

A search plane radioed in mid-afternoon that it swooped low over the rafts. "There were no bodies on the two rafts," it reported.

Manchester U. Stays on Top

LONDON (AP)—Manchester United stretched its unbeaten streak to 26 games today with a 3-1 away victory over Sunderland and Tottenham Hotspur and Arsenal—London's big two clubs—again were in top form with impressive wins.

A crowd of 50,000 turned out at Sunderland for the visit of the English league leaders and once again United served up some dazzling football.

Stoke City, which won 1-0 at Lincoln, and Leicester City, which squeezed out a 3-2 win over Port Vale, both have 19 points at the top of the second division but Stoke leads with a slightly better goal average.

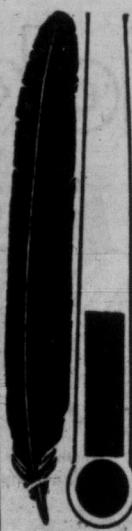

Southampton kept on top of the third division southern with a 1-0 away win over Brighton and Hove Albion. Torquay United, level with Southampton with 21 points but behind in goal average, scored two goals in the second half for a 2-1 victory over Norwich City. Hartlepools United increased its lead in the third division northern with a 2-1 win at Crewe Alexandra. Accrington Stanley, among the leaders, lost 2-0 at Bradford City.

Won't Withdraw Forces From Area

LLANDUDNO, Wales (Reuters)—Prime Minister Eden said today peace has been Britain's aim throughout the Suez crisis negotiations—but not peace at any price.

"In dealing with a dictatorship, peace at any price means to increase, step by step, the dangers of universal war," he told the Conservative party's annual conference here.

He continued: "When Col. Nasser seized the canal we thought it our duty to take certain steps in eastern Mediterranean, far from inflaming the situation, has greatly decreased the danger of further incidents and induced a measure of caution in some minds."

With Britain, Force Is Last Resort

Eden said that with Britain force always was the last resort.

"Therefore we have refused to say that in no circumstances would we ever use force."

"No responsible government would ever give such a pledge."

"... The history of every nation shows that it is not sufficient to have good laws if the power to enforce them is lacking. These conditions apply equally on the international plane. To turn a blind eye to the realities of the situation would be to hazard, not only the security of our own country, but to surrender our responsibilities in the world. This we are not prepared to do."

He said the government's Suez policy remained what it had been from the beginning—an arrangement for the future of the canal would be acceptable to Britain which left it in unfettered control of a single power which could exploit it purely for purposes of national policy.

"That is our position and it has not changed," Eden said.

"It remains our intention to seek its acceptance by negotiation if we possibly can."

At one point Eden chided John

"The government has no intention of modifying or withdrawing from this decision."

"We have shown the most absolute restraint. The presence of our forces in the eastern Mediterranean, far from inflaming the situation, has greatly decreased the danger of further incidents and induced a measure of caution in some minds."

"The government could be more misleading," said Eden. "Colonialism has nothing to do with the matter one way or another. We have never disputed Egyptian sovereignty. What is at stake in this dispute is whether the sanctity of contract has to be respected or not."

Eden said that statements made at the recent labor party conference were most damaging to Britain.

"They amount to encouragement of Middle Eastern countries to nationalize oil and other undertakings which we—British brains, skill and capital—have done so much to develop."

Reporting that the government's economic policy was showing success, he said, "it is in fact forcing the inflation out of the economy. The process is disagreeable but it is healthy. We shall be more competitive with other nations, but we shall no longer enjoy easy money or increases in profits or in wages."

At one point Eden chided John

"which have not been earned."

Finance Firms OK Credit Curb

By VICTOR J. MACKIE
Times Ottawa Correspondent

OTTAWA—Canada's major sales finance companies have undertaken to apply voluntary restrictions to consumer credit, at the urging of the Central Bank.

A day-long meeting Friday with James Coyne, Governor of the Bank of Canada and other senior central bank officials, was attended by representatives of the leading companies in the sales finance business.

Company representatives disclosed afterwards that they had undertaken to employ "certain voluntary measures to control further expansion of credit."

This is one more step being taken to apply its brakes to the inflationary pressures gaining momentum within the Canadian economy.

Officers of a dozen firms, carrying on about 90 per cent of the sales finance business in the country, attended the Ottawa meeting. Not present however were representatives of the large department stores which handle a big volume of Instalment buying is a major factor in the credit field. As of March, the latest date for which figures are available, consumer credit, including charge accounts, amounted to $1,279,000,000 for the same period a year ago.

Last month the central bank representatives conferred with heads of stock exchanges to explore the possibility of restraining credit in this field by a boost in the 50 per cent margin requirement on the purchase of common stocks. The brokers discouraged the move on the grounds that margin buying had already turned downwards.

Agreement on the six principles was reported to the council in a two-hour secret session Friday night. They called for freedom of navigation, respect for Egyptian sovereignty, insulation of the canal from national politics, fixing of tolls by agreement between Egypt and users nations, use of a fair part of the dues for canal improvement and arbitration of any disputes between Egypt and the expropriated Suez Canal Company.

U.S. PRESIDENT PLEASED

President Eisenhower, on a television interview in Washington, hailed the development as "most gratifying". He said it looked as though "a very great crisis is behind us".

The agreement on the canal, nationalized by Egypt, July 26, followed six private meetings among British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd, French Foreign Minister Christian Pineau, Egyptian Foreign Minister Mamoud Fawzi and United Nations Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold.

Ike Tells Nation He's GOP Boss

Denies Adlai's Part-Time Charge

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democrats charged Friday that President Eisenhower is not leading his party or the United States, but Eisenhower told the U.S. via television he is fully in charge of his administration.

Adlai Stevenson, the Democratic presidential candidate, said President Eisenhower is "either unwilling or unable" to lead the Republican party. In consequence, Stevenson continued, national policy "has become stalled on dead centre." He said Vice-President Richard Nixon is the party's "new head."

Harry S. Truman, Democratic former president, said the U.S. "can't get by with a part-time president." Truman predicted a depression if Republicans win the Nov. 6 election.

President Eisenhower, asked directly in a televised question-and-answer session about this recurring Democratic accusation, replied:

"If I am not running the executive part of this government, then I am the man that is mostly foiled in this nation."

Stevenson, pushing his campaign in California, told a San Diego audience:

ISSUES "GRIM, PRESSING"

"Grim and pressing problems accumulate. But our federal government, the instrument of the people, has stopped thinking, stopped feeling, stopped caring and stopped acting."

Stevenson also announced he would have "more to say" in a country-wide radio-TV speech Monday night about his hotly attacked proposals to stop H-bomb tests.

Eisenhower, Vice-President Nixon and others have criticized Stevenson's stand. Eisenhower has called the proposal a "theatrical gesture."

Earlier Friday, Stevenson charged Eisenhower has misrepresented him by saying Stevenson wants to stop testing atomic weapons. Stevenson said he was concerned only with "hydrogen weapons."

Eisenhower's statement that he's firmly in charge came in an unusual mass television interview, with questions put by a variety of administration supporters. Aides said the show was unrehearsed.

During the exchange, Eisenhower said he is against uncontrolled "big business," but upheld his policy of using successful businessmen in key government posts.

Arms Unification May Be Speeded

By DAVE McINTOSH
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA—(CP)—Unification of the Canadian armed forces may revolution in thinking in the be no more than a dozen years armed forces to match the revolution in weapons which has taken place in the last decade. This process probably will take years.

The top echelons in the defence department are giving a greatsounding basis on which to work. Of deal of thought to the problem officer cadets of all three services unification though nothing has yet been mixed up together in the occurred which could be classified as a concrete move in this direction. Johns, Que., Kingston, Ont., and Royal Roads, B.C. In the next 10 years, these colleges will graduate some 4,000 men.

Staff College Integration Next

Officials say the logical step now will be to carry over this integration into the staff colleges. There are already some exchanges but these can be increased considerably.

The object of this integration would be to get officers thinking about defence as a whole and not from the narrower point of view of their own service.

As older officers ingrained with one-service thinking and loyalty retired, their places would be taken by men trained in the concept of a single force.

Officials say once the overall outlook among the services has been reoriented in this way, matters now considered all but insoluble problems will melt away.

At the moment, the army and RCAF are locked in a sometimes bitter struggle for control of missiles. The army claims they are simply a logical projection of anti-aircraft guns and artillery; the air force maintains they are pilotless planes which should be under its control.

The myriad problems which will be raised by unification and officials agree unification must come eventually—are not concerning the defence department yet. They are too far ahead.

In the services themselves, as distinct from the civilian authority, there is a great deal of talk these days about unification, both for and against.

Oddly enough, the talk for unification seems most prevalent in the air force, the service now in the ascendency because of the emphasis on defence against an air-borne atomic attack.

Some army officers say the air force merely sees the handwriting on the wall. The army saying is: "When missiles replace planes we won't need wing commanders to push buttons."

The navy appears to be the service most opposed to unification. To the sailor, the sea is incomprehensible to the soldier and airman.

This total is nearly three times the provincial debt, which stands at about $31,000,000.

The record revenue was an increase of $50,422,569 over the previous year while expenditures on income account were up $22,804,589 over the 1954-55 figures.

Trucker Calls for End To 'Carping' Rail Competition'

VANCOUVER (CP)—W. C. Norris, president of the Automotive Transport Association of Canada, called Friday for an end to "carping and competing" between the nation's railroads and trucking industries so they can "get on with the job of moving the goods to develop the country."

Mr. Norris, here to attend the annual meeting of the ATA's B.C. division, said in an interview the "trucking industry is being hard pushed to keep up with the demands of business and industry and the railroads are operating at a higher capacity."

The competition is healthy to keep rates down, but there is certainly a good deal of room for more co-operation," Mr. Norris said.

What is hurting the truckers, he said, "is the new investment in trucks and handling equipment we have been forced to make in the boom of the last few years."

Tricksters Steal 10c Of Every $1

CALGARY (CP)—About 10 percent of the average payroll goes to line the pockets of "unscrupulous promoters, medical quacks, tricksters, and unethical operators of every sort," says Allan Rose, manager of the Calgary Better Business Bureau.

He told a service club Friday that even top-bracket criminals such as bank robbers are "put in the shade" by sharp business operators.

"Not many of you have ever been held up or suffered a house-breaking or robbery, but I'm willing to bet there is many an unpleasant memory of an undervalued magazine subscription, the purchase of a used car which had been misrepresented all down the line, a suit ruined by a dry cleaner who would accept no responsibility for his actions, or perhaps, the purchase of quality soil which turned out to be dings from the city dump."

Mr. Rose also criticized padded finance charges, "bait and switch" tactics used in selling vacuum cleaners, and fake "give-away" schemes.

The answer to the problem of "gimmick selling" is not in government regulations, but in co-operative action among businessmen themselves," he said. "Business must keep it's own house clean if it is to deserve the confidence of the public."

The referendum will ask each civil servant if he favors the payroll deduction method of contributing to charities.

A referendum vote on payroll deduction will be taken soon, Larry Huck, president of the local branch of the B.C. Government Employees' Association, said Friday.

The referendum will ask each civil servant if he favors the payroll deduction method and so, whether he wishes to have the right to allocate gifts to any specific group or groups.

STILL VOLUNTARY

"Regardless of how they vote, gifts to charity will continue to be made on voluntary basis," Mr. Huck said.

The provincial employees' division of the Community Chest drive announced today that contributions have now reached $300—about $100 more than was given last year.

Percy Ramsay, chairman, said two large departments remain to be canvassed.

He added that donations to the chest have been made by only about one-third of the total number of employees, although this number is 150 more than last year.

Several charities canvass each year and each one collects as much as the chest, although the chest collects, although the chest consists of 19 appeals in one."

Mr. Huck said major campaigns are staged annually by the Community Chest, the Red Cross, the Conquer Cancer Campaign and the Salvation Army.

The first two groups have indicated they are in favor of giving by payroll deduction.

Wall St. Slow But Prices Good

NEW YORK (UP)—World series baseball and a pseudo-celebration of Columbus Day, no longer a stock exchange holiday, brought transactions on the big board down to a new low since Aug. 19, 1955, during the past week.

Price-wise the market was much better than the sales volume. The industrial average closed the week at 490.19, up 7.80 points and a new high since Sept. 21; rails, 160.79 up 1.98 and a new high since Sept. 5; utilities, 66.49, off 0.06; and 65 stocks, 173.09, up 2.06 points.

Sales for the week totalled 7,406,995 shares or a daily average of 1,481,399 shares. This contrasted with 10,384,168 shares or a daily average of 2,076,833 shares last week.

Between this week and last week, the industrial average closed 14.94 points and rails, 6.78 points.

World series games brought the volume down sharply early in the week. On Tuesday, for example, the trades fell to 1,220,000 shares, smallest for any session since Oct. 27, 1953.

On Wednesday when the last out was made at Ebbets Field the professionals rushed back into the market and sent the industrial average soaring six points. Another rally came on Friday.

That Friday rise—2.13 points in the industrials and 1.47 points in rails—was accompanied by official statements that defence spending may rise next year, and there will be ample credit for essential needs.

Election, Suez 'Bogey's' Less Fearsome

The tight money bogey was said to be wearing thin as a market factor on the adverse side. The same went for Suez. Also, the street was said to be less apprehensive over the election outcome which was said to have brought some recent declines.

There were several favorable corporate items during the week. McGraw Electric voted to merge with Thomas A. Edison, Inc. Mead Corp. increased its dividend and declared a 2 1/4 per cent stock extra. Brown Shoe raised its dividend. Crescent Corp. voted a 5-for-1 split. On Friday, American-Hawaiian Steamship, to be liquidated, ran up 7 points to the tune of unconfirmed reports the liquidation price will be $150 a share.

Friday's rise was generated by strength in the rails, where

Is Wall St.'s Bull Market Nearing End?

By ED MORSE
NEW YORK (AP)—Is the great, seven-year bull market in stocks coming to an end?

Wall Street is split in debate on that question.

From June 1949 to April this year when the market hit an all-time high, stock prices had a phenomenal rise. During the seven-year bull market some shares rose by close to 3,000 per cent.

If you had invested $100 in Reynolds Metals at its low price of $3 in 1949 you could have sold it for around $2,800 this year, multiplying your money 28 times.

The bonanza in stocks was not the exclusive property of a few Wall Street "insiders." There are an estimated 8,630,000 shareholders now in the U.S. population of nearly 170,000,000. Two thirds of the shareholders have incomes of less than $7,500 a year.

OPINIONS

But now some financial prophets are forecasting an end to the bull market in stocks and a back-away in business and industry. They predict a bear market—a prolonged period of sinking stock market prices. Other prophets say exactly the opposite.

Those who predict a bear market say that the bull market is "thired." All bull markets come to an end, they say, and this one can't last forever.

Several expert observers noted that the general public—which traditionally is scared off by falling prices—is buying more stock than it is selling.

INDUSTRIALS SPURT, OTHERS LAG; BANKS, STEELS BEST AT TORONTO

By RON ANDREWS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Industrials spurted ahead on the stock markets this week but mining and oil issues drifted in no particular direction and showed little change.

The trading volume was cut down by the Canadian Thanksgiving holiday Monday and Wall Street worked under semi-holiday conditions Friday when American banks were closed in the observance of Columbus Day and many investors left for a long weekend.

Canadian markets chalked up slim advances Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday but slipped back a little on the last day of trading. New York lost some ground Tuesday but went ahead on the other four sessions. The best single-session advance in both countries occurred Wednesday.

Royal Bank showed the best gain in industrials. It added $3.50 to $65.25. Other winners of $2 or more were Aluminum, Algoma, B-A Oil, Calgary Power, Powell River, St. Lawrence and Interna-trial leaders. But a number of stocks in all industrial groups showed some good gains. Copper issues, despite a decrease in scrap copper prices in the United States, were firm. Other mining issues had about as many gains as losses but the advances were wider.

Trading was about average for recent sessions during the four-day week. A total of 13,603,000 shares were exchanged against 18,987,000 in five sessions last week.

Grave Raid Trial To Higher Court

Port Alberni Waitress Committed, Freed on Bail After Long Hearing

ALBERNI—Port Alberni waitress Doreen Lockner, 19, Friday was committed for trial after a preliminary hearing on a charge of offering indignity to a dead human body.

The committal to a higher court was ordered by Magistrate Thomas Patterson following a lengthy hearing at which three other accused gave details of the Greenwood grave-opening case.

Miss Lockner was freed on $1,000 bail and is expected to appear for trial before Nanaimo County Court judge L. A. Hanna, at Alberni.

William Harold Nelson, 18, who gave evidence at the hearing, was sentenced Thursday to two years less a day definite and two years less a day indefinite, on the same charge.

David Windsor Ferguson, 19, will appear for preliminary hearing Wednesday. Jean Gibson, 17, who was transferred from juvenile court, is still in trial.

Miss Gibson told the court that neither she nor Miss Lockner had said or done anything to assist or encourage the two men in digging into the grave sometimes between midnight and 2 a.m. on September 24.

Drank Whiskey Straight From Bottle

The girl said she wasn't paper. Doreen (Lockner) lit the paper with a lighter. I was holding it and handed it to one of the boys."

She related, under protection of the Canada Evidence Act, that she had first visited the cemetery on the night in question with Ferguson, Nelson and another Port Alberni waitress, Wilma Vanderhorst.

"Wilma and I both got out of the car. We went over to the grave to see if they really were digging it up. They had dug about to the coffin. Right after that we took Wilma home."

Then they met the Lockner girl and the four returned to the cemetery.

She said she and Miss Lockner watched "Bill and Dave trying to get the coffin out. We looked in the grave but didn't see anything. We saw something when the two boys lifted the boards."

"It was very dark. They had a light going with a piece of paper. Doreen (Lockner) lit the paper with a lighter. I was holding it and handed it to one of the boys."

She said from time to time she and the Lockner girl "became scared" and returned to the car. She said one of the boys hooked a chain to the body. She and Nelson stood by to watch the body come out of the grave, dragged by the car.

"Bill and I just saw some movement coming out of the grave. We never stayed to watch. We ran to the car; we were pretty scared."

Nelson told the court he and Ferguson had visited the cemetery earlier in the evening with Elsie Krevinski and Norma Walton, both teenagers. The girls had not been drinking but his memory of the events, he said, was fogged by drink. The sight of the body sobered him.

"I can remember from there," Ferguson, also speaking under protection of the Canada Evidence Act, said Nelson had brought liquor from a Vancouver liquor store. He said after the digging was started, "for some reason, we didn't want to do it any more. We drove back to Port Alberni and met Doreen."

In his testimony he stated the first girls they had taken to the cemetery, Elsie Krevinski and Norma Walton, had been discussing Elvis Presley.

"When they started . . . we started drinking more heavily. We threw away the mixers and drank straight whisky then."

Asked if it was fair to say Doreen Lockner didn't do anything to assist or encourage the boys, he replied, "No, not exactly. I know that she must have wanted to see. If she hadn't wanted to go out there, we wouldn't have taken her. We wouldn't have forced her."

Police testified a woman's shoe print was found on top of the casket.

Vancouver lawyer Paul Paine, defending Miss Lockner, said participation in the crime had not been proven with regard to his client.

Port Alberni Trucker Wants V.I. Franchise

E & N Rail Cut Under Protest

PORT ALBERNI—At the same time that the Esquimalt and Nanaimo Railway is trying to eliminate its rail passenger service between here and Nanaimo, a local trucking firm is attempting to spread its operations northward and southward on Vancouver Island.

Chemainus and District Chamber of Commerce this week recommended to the superintendent of motor carriers that consideration be given to granting a licence to West Coast Freight Limited of Port Alberni to operate a freight pick-up and delivery service from Duncan to the north of the Island.

President W. Bowles told the meeting that the proposed pick-up and delivery service would be run in competition with Island Freight.

"They are prepared to give daily service from Vancouver, leaving Vancouver at 6 p.m. and arriving in Chemainus early the following morning, giving special attention to perishable merchandise and shipments of an urgent nature," he said.

Members were of the opinion that Island Freight was providing a good enough service to Chemainus, but that a competitive line could only result in still better service.

Meanwhile the Vancouver Island Ratepayers Association, determined to see extension of the passenger service the railway hopes to drop, is preparing a brief for submission to the Board of Transport Commissioners.

G. E. Bonner of Cobble Hill, president of the association, said the brief will ask the Board of Transport for a public hearing in Nanaimo.

The CPR, which operates the E and N line, has proposed to abandon the passenger service because bus service and the increased number of passenger cars have cut down demand for train service.

Mr. Bonner said earlier the ratepayers will ask the transport commissioners to establish a dayliner service in addition to the present passenger service.

MONTE ROBERTS

Motorists basically are unhappy. They are unhappy about pedestrians, no left turns, bicyclists, potholes, flat tires, funny little noises somewhere in the back of the car, the price of gasoline, and other motorists.

But most of all, they are unhappy about parking. Motorists, when they stop motoring, must find a place to park.

The place to park, if they find one at all, is on the other side of the street, and no U turns allowed, so by the time the motorist has motored around the block and, by a complicated series of evolutions, arrived at the parking place, another motorist is there first.

Motorists are also unhappy about parking because all the best parking spaces carry signs such as "Bus stop—no stopping" and "Loading zone—no loading" and "Hotel zone—no hoteling."

It is enough to make a motorist go back to being a pedestrian.

(Pedestrians are unhappy, too, but that is another story.)

But what makes motorists unhappiest of all about parking is, on the rare occasions, when they find a legal parking space, beside the parking space is a one-armed bandit laughingly known as a "parking meter."

This parking meter has a slot at one side, in which motorists are required to place coins of the realm, to protect the legality of the parking space.

Naturally, motorists never have the proper type coins of the realm in their pockets, so they are compelled to trudge two blocks to a store where change can be obtained.

And when they return to the parking space, they find a man in blue, who has been lurking unseen in the background, has leapt out and affixed a small bit of paper under the windshield wiper.

This small bit of paper is valued at $1.00, payable forthwith and without delay.

As said before, it is no wonder motorists are unhappy.

And I think something should be done about it.

The city fathers should seriously consider a plan to bring a little joy and happiness into the dark lives of motorists.

The city fathers should replace the present one-armed bandits which decorate parking spaces with the type of one-armed bandits popular in Las Vegas, Nevada.

Let the motorist have at least a faint sporting chance of hitting the jackpot when he deposits a coin in the meter.

If the poor, downtrodden motorist were given the opportunity of occasionally receiving a pay-off, some of the gloom would go out of his life.

He would be more anxious to park, revenues to the city would climb, and on those rare occasions when he hit the jackpot, the motorist would be happy.

Let us by all means move toward making motorists happy.

4-Year Sentence In Abortion Case

Four years in the penitentiary was the sentence imposed Friday upon Benjamin Robert Maggs, 48, who was convicted by a Criminal Assize Court jury of attempting an abortion while posing as a doctor.

Justice Harold McInnes, in passing sentence, described Maggs as a "serious menace to society" who was not safe to leave at large.

Maggs is a former inspector of the Second Battalion, QORs, who was living with the Billings woman, that he had brought Maggs to the Wark Street house, believing that (Maggs) was a doctor.

Defence counsel James Proudfit asked the court for leniency on the ground that Maggs was married and had no previous convictions except one for carrying an offensive weapon in 1946.

Mr. Justice McInnes said he had been informed that Maggs was in a bad state of health. He said he would make it known to the authorities that Maggs needed treatment.

"If you were to carry on, eventually someone might die as a result of your activities," said the justice, "and you would face a charge of murder."

He was found guilty of attempting an abortion on Joyce Margaret Billings at 2727 Wark on April 1 after posing as a doctor and RCMP surgeon.

The crown at the trial also established that Maggs was known by soldiers at the Gordon Head camp as a doctor.

Evidence was given by Stanley Glen Frohman, a member

Saanich Man 'Not Guilty' In Rape Case

An Assize Court jury acquitted John Claude Wilkie, 22-year-old Saanich laborer, who was tried on a charge of raping a 19-year-old Sidney girl at Beaver Lake on June 17.

The jury returned with a verdict of "not guilty" after deliberating for 30 minutes.

Wilkie testified at the trial that he had sexual relations with the young woman, but without the use of force. She did not protest, he claimed.

After the incident, Wilkie said he took the girl home to apologize to her father for bringing her back at 4 in the morning. He said he was informed by the woman then that she was going to lay a charge of rape against him.

The woman claimed that she was taken to Beaver Lake in Wilkie's car after attending a party. She said she was thrown on the ground and despite her struggles and screams was raped.

Wilkie was defended by James Proudfit during the three-day trial before Mr. Justice Harold McInnes.

4 Hunters Fined After Game Check

Four city and district hunters were convicted and fined in Colwood RCMP court Friday following the first major RCMP game department road check of the hunting season.

The combined traffic and game road check point was set up Sept. 30 at Goldstream and resulted in more than 20 traffic convictions last week.

Each fined $10 and $3 costs for hunting without a firearms licence were Frank J. Battams, 1019 Richardson; Robert Richardson, 2562 Sooke Road; William Kissinger, 2567 Vancouver; and William Hamilton, Oldfield Cemetery.

Mrs. Ross was employed with the department of education from the age of 17 until her retirement two years ago. She later took a position with the government Graving Dock until she was forced to leave due to ill health.

She is survived by a daughter, Mrs. John D. Ciceri; her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Pepper; one brother, W. H. Pepper, Jr., and two grandchildren, all of Victoria.

Deal Pending for Sale Of W. & J. Wilson Ltd.Four Stores Involved In $1 Million Purchase

The pending sale of one of Victoria's oldest stores, the clothing firm of W. & J. Wilson Ltd., 1221 Government, was reliably reported here today.

Involved are premises, stock, and goodwill estimated at around $1,000,000.

Sale is expected to include branches at Hotel Vancouver and in summer operation at Banff Springs Hotel, Banff, and Chateau Lake Louise, Alta.

Involved in the purchase are Bruce B. Tingley, former store manager of Hudson's Bay Co. here. It is understood his partners in the new operation are William Clarke, of McGill and Orme in the city, and Robert Thompson, National Cash Register.

None of the principals would confirm or deny the report.

Present manager of the clothing store, J. H. Wilson, of Tower Park Road, Sidney, would not deny sale is contemplated.

The W. & J. Wilson store was founded here in 1862 and celebrated its 90th anniversary, four years ago in April.

It was founded on the arrival from England of William Wilson and his brother, Joseph. Since then four generations of the family have been connected with the store.

At the time of founding, Victoria was a collection of tents and log buildings. The first Wilson building was located opposite the old post office building which is now being demolished.

There was no mail delivery in those days and people from all over called at the post office, much of the traffic later flowing through the Wilson brothers' store.

Later the store was located

3 Servicemen Charged With Ballroom Entry'Door Open So We Walked In'

Three servicemen were charged in city court today with breaking and entering Victoria Ballroom, 1600 Government, early this morning and other burglars are sought by police for entering a Wharf Street shop overnight.

Soldiers Leonard McNeil and Edward Scott, and sailor Eugene Dureault, were remanded to Monday for plea and trial after asking for time to obtain legal advice.

Police found them about 4:30 a.m. in Victoria Ballroom, which they said "was open, so we walked in." Nothing was reported missing from the premises.

A variation of the old rope trick was employed by agile culprits who scaled a fire escape at the rear of Island Marine Supplies, 1214 Wharf, climbed to the roof, smashed a skylight and lowered themselves into the shop on a one-inch manila rope.

Drawers were opened and a half-inch nylon rope about 50 feet long was taken.

REAR ADMIRAL RAYNERNaval Personnel Chief Will Visit Esquimalt Base

Rear Admiral H. S. Rayner, DSC and bar, CD, RCN, will arrive at Patricia Bay airport Sunday for a five-day visit to ship and shore establishments of the Pacific Command, his first since his appointment as chief of naval personnel in May, 1955.

Police found them about 4:30 a.m. in Victoria Ballroom, which they said "was open, so we walked in." Nothing was reported missing from the premises.

Admiral Rayner was last on this coast in 1954, when he was commanding officer of the aircraft carrier HMCS Magnificent.

He will arrive at 6:45 p.m. Sunday, and meet his first officer, Pacific Coast, Commodore Patrick Budge, at 9 a.m. Monday.

Monday afternoon he will address cadets at the Canadian Services College, Royal Roads, following a ceremonial parade.

Inspection tours are slated at HMC Dockyard, HMCS Naden, ships of the Second Canadian Escort Squadron, HMCS Venture and HMCS Ontario.

Later the store was located

Cyclist's Condition 'Fair' After Crash

Cyclist Jagat Singh Bains, 51, 825 Roderick, is in fair condition at St. Joseph's Hospital where he was taken at 4:40 p.m. Friday for treatment of severe skull fracture suffered when his bicycle was in collision with a car at Douglas and Garibaldi.

The car, driven by a 17-year-old juvenile, was travelling south on Douglas, police said, when it collided with Bains who turned south from Garibaldi.

He was 85 years of age.

"Prior to retiring here in 1953, Mr. Bains spent 14 years in Ceylon as head of a British mercantile company. He also lived in Australia, Winnipeg and California.

He is survived by two brothers, Dr. William Burns, New Zealand, and James T. Burns, Victoria; three nephews, Archibald Love and Arthur J. Burns of Victoria, and Dr. Lindsay Burns of New Zealand.

A private funeral will be held at McCall's chapel Monday at 11 a.m. Dr. J. L. W. McLean officiating. Cremation will follow.

TRAFFIC FINES

Benjamin C. Barker, View Royal, $25 and $50 costs for careless driving.

Anton T. Friedrich, 31 South Turner, $3 and $5 costs for careless driving resulting in his car going out of control on Admirals last Saturday, inuring four when it left the road.

James C. Sutherland, 1151 Finlayson, $25 and $3 costs for driving without a licence.

James T. Paul, Work Point Barrows, $25 and $3 costs for being a learner's licence holder without a fully licensed adult with him when driving.

Norman W. Young, 2873 Sooke Road, $15 for speeding over 40 miles an hour, clocked on radar at 55.

Frederick L. C. Roesner, 450 Beta, $20 and $3 costs for speeding over 35 miles an hour, clocked at 65.

In Oak Bay court Friday: Alexander Peten, HMCS New Glasgow, $25 for having no driver's licence.

John William Shea, HMCS New Glasgow, $25 for having no driver's licence.

Elizabeth Stansbury, 1621 Prospect, $15 for speeding over 30 miles an hour.

Gwen M. McIntosh, 3940 Dawai, $15 for speeding over 30.

C. M. Piercy, 2344 Beach, $15 for speeding over 30.

SIGNIFICANT WORDS

Oneness of Christ God, Dean's Choice

The following is the fifth in a series of weekly discussions with ministers of churches in the Greater Victoria area, who will be asked to comment on the Biblical passage which holds the most significance for them.

"And the Word was made flesh, and dwelt among us, and we beheld His glory . . ." Gospel according to St. John, chapter 1, verse 14.

"It's difficult to say that any one text is basic to Christianity," said Dean Brian Whitlow, Christ Church Cathedral.

"But this verse is among the foremost in the Bible."

"Christians believe that Jesus Christ was much more than a great teacher."

"The thing that divides Christians from other people is that they believe Jesus was, in fact, God."

"Some people think of the Sermon on the Mount as being the very centre of the Gospel and sometimes seem to think as if that is what the Gospel is all about."

"Moses, Socrates and Confucius have given us beautiful teachings. It isn't His teachings especially that make Christ unique."

"We Christians believe that in Christ, God acted by sending His Son. That is why this text is so basic."

"Christ is God's word translated into human flesh, so that when men saw Jesus, they saw God."

"Things that made Jesus angry make God angry. Things that pleased Jesus please God. Jesus was the God-Man."

"Christians understand that God was acting in Christ, that when Christ did something or when people did something to Christ, these things were being done by God and to God."

"Those who had the eyes to see perceived the glory to God vied for the time being within the outward form of a Jewish carpenter."

"An honors graduate from Oxford University, Dean Whitlow came to Victoria in 1955 with Mrs. Whitlow, their son Simon, 13, and daughter Hilary, 11."

Dean Whitlow was formerly rector of Wakeham and York in Quebec.

Main work of the Gideons is Bible distribution.

Bailey Wins 800-Metre Olympic Trial

MELBOURNE (AP)—Jim Bailey won the 800 metres race at the opening of the Australian Olympic trials today in which two Australian track and field records were shattered.

Bailey, 10 yards ahead of Leon Gregory, was timed in 1:53.2. Officials questioned him afterwards for alleged interference with Don McMillan but took no action beyond cautioning Bailey.

Shirley Strickland beat her Australian record for the 80-metre hurdles with a winning time of 11 seconds.

Missing Jones Boy Found

VANCOUVER (CP)—Roland Jones, 25, who walked out of Oakalla prison Friday when released by mistake for another Jones, was picked up by police here today. (See Page 30.)

Winnie's Horse Beats Queen's

KEMPTON PARK, Eng. (AP)—Sir Winston Churchill's Pretendant today defeated Queen Elizabeth's High Veldt in the mile and a half Cumberland Lodge stakes.

The Pretendant defeated High Veldt by half a length in the field of five.

Rock Workers Judgment Monday

VANCOUVER (CP)—Judgment on contempt of court proceedings against six members of the striking Tunnel and Rockworkers' Union will be given Monday. (See also Page 2.)

797 Hurt in Tokyo Runway Riot

TOKYO (Reuters)—A total of 797 rioters and police were injured today in clashes over the extension of a runway at the U.S. base at nearby Shikoku. Four policemen and 39 demonstrators, including Socialist Member of Parliament Rikuya Nishimura, were detained in hospital.

Ike to Okay Atom-Power Ship

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower on Monday will give the go ahead for construction of nuclear-powered merchant ship, which Congress authorized at the last session.

White House press secretary James C. Hagerty said the atomic-powered ship is expected to be completed in about three years.

Ontario Club Quits Lottery

OSHAWA, Ont. (CP)—The Oshawa Lions Club today began recalling thousands of 25-cent lottery tickets after police ruled the lottery an offence under the criminal code.

Aussies Trail Pakistan Cricketers

KARACHI (AP)—The Australian test cricket team was in difficult position when stumps were drawn on the third day of their five-day test against Pakistan here today.

Going in for their second knock 119 runs behind Pakistan's first innings total of 199, the Australians scored 138 for the loss of six wickets, giving them a lead of 19 runs with only four wickets in hand.

Ike Tells Nation He's GOP Boss

Denies Adlai's Part-Time Charge

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democrats charged Friday that President Eisenhower is not leading his party or the United States, but Eisenhower told the U.S. via television he is fully in charge of his administration.

Adlai Stevenson, the Democratic presidential candidate, said President Eisenhower is "either unwilling or unable" to lead the Republican party. In consequence, Stevenson continued, national policy "has become stalled on dead centre." He said Vice-President Richard Nixon is the party's "new head."

Harry S. Truman, Democratic former president, said the U.S. "can't get by with a part-time president." Truman predicted a depression if Republicans win the Nov. 6 election.

President Eisenhower, answering a question in a televised question-and-answer session about this recurring Democratic accusation, replied:

"If I am not running the executive part of this government, then I am the man that is mostly fooled in this nation."

Stevenson, pushing his campaign in California, told a San Diego audience:

ISSUES "GRIM, PRESSING"

"Grim and pressing problems accumulate. But our federal government, the instrument of the people, has stopped thinking, stopped feeling, stopped caring and stopped acting."

Stevenson also announced he would have "more to say" in a country-wide radio-TV speech Monday night about his hotly attacked proposals to stop H-bomb tests.

Eisenhower, Vice-President Nixon and others have criticized Stevenson's stand. Eisenhower has called the proposal a "theatrical gesture."

Earlier Friday, Stevenson charged Eisenhower has misrepresented him by saying Stevenson wants to stop testing atomic weapons. Stevenson said he was concerned only with "hydrogen weapons."

Eisenhower's statement that he's firmly in charge came in an unusual mass television interview, with questions put by a variety of administration supporters. Aides said the show was unrehearsed.

During the exchange, Eisenhower said he is against uncontrolled "big business," but upheld his policy of using successful businessmen in key government posts.

Arms Unification May Be Speeded

By DAVE MCINTOSH

Canadian Press Staff Writer
OTTAWA (CP)—Unification of the Canadian armed forces may revolution in thinking in the no more than a dozen years armed forces to match the revolution. In the history of armed forces which has taken place in the last decade, this process probably will take years.

The top echelons in the defence. But the forces already have a department of thought to the problem of officer cadets of all three services unification though nothing has yet been mixed up together in the occurred which could be classed three military colleges at St. as a concrete move in this direction. In the next 10 Royal Roads, B.C. In the next 10 years, these colleges will graduate.

Officials say that unification years, these colleges will graduate.

Staff College Integration Next

Officials say the logical step now will be to carry over this integration into the staff colleges. There are already some exchanges but these can be increased considerably.

The object of this integration would be to get officers thinking about defence as a whole and not from the narrower point of view of their own service.

$151 Millions Cash Surplus For Alberta

EDMONTON (CP)—Several financial records were set in Alberta during the 1955-56 fiscal year, as revenues hit a high of $21,608,105 and expenditures on income account jumped to a record $132,028,520.

The provincial government ended the fiscal year with a net surplus of $15,939,540.

The bright picture was released Friday by C. K. Huckvale, provincial auditor, in the public accounts book for the fiscal year ended March 31. He said the big reason for the healthy increase in revenue is the province's oil development.

The 1955-56 surplus left the government with an accumulative surplus of more than $151,000,000 in readily negotiable cash and investments while another $118,000,000 is tied up in the municipal loan funds.

This total is nearly three times the provincial debt, which stands at about $51,000,000.

The record revenue was an increase of $50,422,959 over the previous year while expenditures on income account were up $22,589 over the 1954-55 figures.

BRIEFS

Trucker Calls for End To 'Carping' Rail Competition

VANCOUVER (CP)—W. C. Norris, president of the Canadian Automotive Transport Association of Canada, called Friday for an end to "carping and competing" between the nation's railroads and trucking industries so they can "get on with the job of moving the goods to develop the country."

Mr. Norris, here to attend the annual meeting of the ATA's B.C. division, said in an interview the trucking industry is being hard pushed to keep up with the demands of business and industry and the railroads are operating at a higher capacity."

The competition is healthy to keep rates down, but there is certainly a good deal of room for more co-operation," Mr. Norris said.

What is hurting the truckers, he said, "is the new investment in trucks and handling equipment we have been forced to make in the boom of the last few years."

Tricksters Steal 10c Of Every $1

CALGARY (CP)—About 10 per cent of the average payroll dollars goes to lube the pockets of the unscrupulous promoters, medical quacks, tricksters, and unethical operators of every sort, says Allan Rose, manager of the Calgary Better Business Bureau.

Some army officers say the air force merely sees the handwriting on the wall. The army says:

"When missiles replace planes we won't need wing commanders to push buttons."

The navy appears to be the service most opposed to unification. To the sailor, the sea is incomprehensible to the soldier and airmen.

Oddly enough, the talk for unification seems most prevalent in the air force, the service now in the ascendancy because of the emphasis on defence against an airborne atomic attack.

Some army officers say the air force merely sees the handwriting on the wall. The army says:

"When missiles replace planes we won't need wing commanders to push buttons."

The army appears to be the service most opposed to unification. To the sailor, the sea is incomprehensible to the soldier and airmen.

"Not many of you have ever been held up or suffered a house-breaking or robbery, but I'm willing to bet there is many an unpleasant memory of an undelivered magazine subscription, the purchase of a used car which had been misrepresented all down the line, a suit ruined by a dry cleaner who would accept no responsibility for his actions, or perhaps, the purchase of quality topsoil which turned out to be digging from the city dump."

Mr. Rose also criticized padded finance charges, "bait and switch" tactics used in selling vacuum cleaners, and fake "give-away" schemes.

The answer to the problem of "gimmick selling" is not in government regulations, but in co-operative action among businessmen themselves," he said. "Business must keep it's own house clean if it is to deserve the confidence of the public."

A good start has been made in improving business ethics in Calgary by formation of the better business bureau, said Mr. Rose, but much remains to be done.

Financial institutions, especially banks, and steels were the indus-

Civil Servants Study New Plan To Aid Charity

Payroll Deduction Goes to Referendum

Three thousand provincial civil servants in Greater Victoria will be asked to decide if they favor the payroll deduction method of contributing to charities.

A referendum vote on payroll deduction will be taken soon, Larry Huck, president of the local branch of the B.C. Government Employees' Association, said Friday.

The referendum will ask each civil servant if he favors the payroll deduction method and if so, whether he wishes to have the right to allocate gifts to any specific group or groups.

STILL VOLUNTARY

"Regardless of how they vote, gifts to charity will continue to be made on a voluntary basis," Mr. Huck said.

The provincial employees' division of the Community Chest drive announced today that contributions have now reached $3,800—about $100 more than was given last year.

Percy Ramsay, chairman, said two large departments remain to be canvassed.

He added that donations to the chest have been made by only about one-third of the total number of employees, although this number is 150 more than last year.

"Several charities canvass the buildings each year and each one collects as much as the chest, although the chest collects 15% of appeals in one."

Mr. Huck said major campaigns are staged annually by the Community Chest, the Red Cross, the Conquer Cancer Campaign and the Salvation Army.

The first two groups have indicated they are in favor of giving by payroll deduction.

Wall St. Slow But Prices Good

By ELMER C. WALZER
United Press Financial Editor
NEW YORK (UP)—World series baseball and a pseudo-celebration of Columbus Day, no longer a stock exchange holiday, brought transactions on the big board down to a new low since Aug. 19, 1955, during the past week.

Price-wise the market was much better than the sales volume. The industrial average closed the week at 490.19, up 7.80 points and a new high since Sept. 21; rails, 160.79, up 1.98 and a new high since Sept. 5; utilities, 66.49, off 0.06; and 60 stocks, 173.09, up 2.06 points.

Sales for the week totalled 7,406,995 shares or a daily average of 1,481,399 shares. This contrasted with 10,384,168 shares or a daily average of

Election, Suez 'Bogeys' Less Fearsome

The tight money bogey was said to be wearing thin as a market factor on the adverse side. The same went for Suez.

Also, the street was said to be less apprehensive over the election outcome which was said to have brought some recent declines.

There were several favorable corporate items during the week. McGraw Electric voted to merge with Thomas A. Edison, Inc. Mead Corp. increased its dividend and declared a 2% per cent stock extra. Brown Shoe raised its dividend. Crescent Corp. voted a 5-for-1 split. On Friday, American-Hawaiian Steamship, to be liquidated, ran up 7 points to the tune of unconfirmed reports the liquidation price will be $150 a share.

Friday's rise was generated by strength in the rails, and

Is Wall St.'s Bull Market Nearing End?

By ED MORSE

NEW YORK (AP)—Is the great, seven-year bull market in stocks coming to an end?

Wall Street is split in debate on that question.

From June 1949 to April this year when the market hit an all-time high, stock prices had a phenomenal rise. During the seven-year bull market some shares rose by close to 3,000 per cent.

If you had invested $100 in Reynolds Metals at its low price of $3 in 1949 you could have sold it for around $2,800 this year multiplying your money 28 times.

The bonanza in stocks was not the exclusive property of a few Wall Street "insiders." There are an estimated 8,630,000 shareholders now in the U.S. population of nearly 170,000,000. Two thirds of the shareholders have incomes of less than $7,500 a year.

OPINIONS VARY

But now some financial prophets are forecasting an end to the bull market in stocks and a backing-away in business and industry.

They predict a bear market—a prolonged period of sinking stock market prices. Other prophets say exactly the opposite.

Those who predict a bear market say that the bull market is "thirsty." All bull markets come to an end, they say, and this one can't last forever.

Several expert observers noted that the general public—which traditionally is scared off by falling prices—is buying more stock than it is selling.

NEW YORK (AP)—The fourth-quarter business surge in the United States picked up speed this week.

Signs pointed to a record volume of business in most lines, although profits might be shaved by rising costs.

Grave Raid Trial To Higher Court

Port Alberni Waitress Committed, Freed on Bail After Long Hearing

ALBERNI—Port Alberni waitress Doreen Lockner, 19, Friday was committed for trial after a preliminary hearing on a charge of offering indignity to a dead human body.

The committal to a higher court was ordered by Magistrate Thomas Patterson following a lengthy hearing at which three other accused gave details of the Greenwood grave-opening case.

Miss Lockner was freed on $1,000 bail and is expected to appear for trial before Nanaimo County Court judge L. A. Hanna, at Alberni.

William Harold Nelson, 18, who gave evidence at the hearing, was sentenced Thursday to two years less a day indefinite, or two years less a day indefinite, on the same charge.

David Windsor Ferguson, 19, will appear for preliminary hearing Wednesday. Jean Gibson, 17, who was transferred from juvenile court, is still to elect trial.

Miss Gibson told the court that neither she nor Miss Lockner had said or done anything to assist or encourage the two men in digging into the grave sometime between midnight and 2 a.m. on September 24.

Drank Whiskey Straight From Bottle

The girl said she wasn't drunk, but admitted drinking whisky straight from the bottle.

"I was not drunk, but I was feeling silly."

She related, under protection of the Canada Evidence Act, that she had first visited the cemetery on the night in question with Ferguson, Nelson and another Port Alberni waitress, Wilma Vanderhorst.

"Wilma and I both got out of the car. We went over to the grave to see if they really were digging it up. They had dug about to the coffin. Right after that we took Wilma home."

Then they met the Lockner girl and the four returned to the cemetery.

She said she and Miss Lockner watched "Bill and Dave trying to get the coffin out. We looked in the grave but didn't see anything. We saw something when the two boys lifted the boards."

"It was very dark. They had a light going with a piece of the body sobered him."

"I can remember from there."

Ferguson, also speaking under protection of the Canada Evidence Act, said Nelson had brought liquor from a Vancouver liquor store. He said after the digging was started, "for some reason, we didn't want to do it any more. We drove back to Port Alberni and met Doreen."

In his testimony he stated the first girls they had taken to the cemetery, Elsie Krevinski and Norma Walton, both teen-agers. The girls had not been drinking but his memory of the events, he said, was fogged by drink. The sight of the body sobered him.

"When they started . . . we started drinking more heavily. We threw away the mixers and drank straight whisky then."

Asked if it was fair to say Doreen Lockner didn't do anything to assist or encourage the boys, he replied, "No, not exactly. I know that she must have wanted to see . . . if she hadn't wanted to go out there, we wouldn't have taken her. We wouldn't have forced her."

Police testified a woman's shoe print was found on top of the casket.

Vancouver lawyer Paul Paine, defending Miss Lockner, said participation in the crime had not been proven with regard to his client.

... SUEZ

Continued from Page 1 plane. To turn a blind eye to the realities of the situation would be to hazard, not only the security of our own country, but to surrender our responsibilities in the world. This we are not prepared to do."

He said the government's Suez policy remained what it had been from the beginning—no arrangement for the future of the canal would be acceptable to Britain which left it in unfettered control of a single power which could exploit it purely for purposes of national policy.

"That is our position and it has not changed," Eden said. "It remains our intention to seek its acceptance by negotiation if we possibly can."

At one point Eden chided John Foster Dulles, although he did not mention the U.S. secretary by name. The prime minister said the canal dispute had been linked with "colonialism"—a clear reference to remarks made by Dulles at a Washington press conference.

"No comment could be more misleading," said Eden. "Colonialism has nothing to do with the matter one way or another. We have never disputed Egyptian sovereignty. What is at stake in this dispute is whether the sanctity of contract has to be respected or not."

Eden said that statements made at the recent labor party conference were most damaging to Britain.

"They amount to encouragement of Middle Eastern countries to nationalize oil and other undertakings which we—British brains, skill and capital—have done so much to develop."

Reporting that the government's economic policy was showing success, he said, "it is in fact forcing the inflation out of the economy. The process is disagreeable but it is healthy. We shall be more competitive with other nations, but we shall no longer enjoy easy money or increases in profits or in wages which have not been earned."

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—The United Nations Security Council was called on today to approve six principles on which Britain, France and Egypt have agreed as a basis for settlement of their Suez Canal dispute.

The council was expected to give unanimous endorsement to a resolution being drafted by Britain and France, but there were signs a long debate might precede the vote.

Agreement on the six principles was reported to the council in a two-hour secret session Friday night. They called for freedom of navigation, respect for Egyptian sovereignty, insulation of the canal from national politics, fixing of tolls by agreement between Egypt and user nations, use of a fair part of the dues for canal improvement and arbitration of any disputes between Egypt and the expropriated Suez Canal Company.

President Eisenhower, in a television interview in Washington, hailed the development as "most gratifying". He said it looked as though "a very great crisis is behind us."

The agreement on the canal, nationalized by Egypt, July 26, followed six private huddles among British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd, French Foreign Minister Christian Pineau, Egyptian Foreign Minister Mahmoud Fawzi and United Nations Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold.

"I can remember from there."

Ferguson, also speaking under protection of the Canada Evidence Act, said Nelson had brought liquor from a Vancouver liquor store. He said after the digging was started, "for some reason, we didn't want to do it any more. We drove back to Port Alberni and met Doreen."

In his testimony he stated the first girls they had taken to the cemetery, Elsie Krevinski and Norma Walton, both teen-agers. The girls had not been drinking but his memory of the events, he said, was fogged by drink. The sight of the body sobered him.

Quebec Voting Critic Gagged?

QUEBEC (CP)—Abbe Louis O'Neill, co-author of a stinging attack on Quebec's electoral methods, has been invited to refrain from writing for publication and from public speaking" for one year by the authorities of Laval University, it was reliably learned today.

Simultaneously Abbe O'Neill, who wrote the controversial 4,000-word article in collaboration with Abbe Gerard Dion, director of the department of industrial relations at Laval, was relieved of his post of professor of moral philosophy at Le Petit Séminaire and assigned to teach logic in the same institution.

A source within the university, who said that his name was not published, said the change was ordered by "a high authority."

NO COMMENT

Superior of Le Petit Séminaire, Quebec province's oldest institution for secondary education and, in effect, a classical college directly affiliated with Laval, declined to comment.

Msgr. Adrien Falalard said: "I have nothing to say. This matter is outside my jurisdiction." Abbe O'Neill declined to deny or confirm the report. He said simply: "I want to say nothing. Go wherever you wish for information but don't ask me to say anything."

The Laval informant said Abbe O'Neill was asked verbally, not in writing, to abstain from making public statements. He added that such an order might well be relaxed within a year, perhaps in a few months, although a time limit of one year was mentioned to Abbe O'Neill.

The article on Quebec's electoral methods was originally published in Ad Usum Sacrum, a mimeographed publication that circulates among clergymen. Text of the article found its way into newspapers. ACCUSES CLERGY

At the time, the two priests declined to give their names as the authors of the article on orders from their superiors.

Their names were later carried by a Montreal newspaper.

The article, intended to be read by Roman Catholic priests, accused Quebec's political parties of buying votes, corrupting electoral officers and creating a scarecrow of communism without justification. It also said members of the clergy were not beyond accepting favors from politicians.
